IS A VERY SICK MAN

No Sudden Change for the Worse Will Within the Next Few Hours It Is Thought

Thursday, 3 o'clock a. m .- A telephone message from the Haleyon Governor Atkinson sleeping soundly. He has had four hours of good sleep. The governor's and temperature show no inconsultation at noon and he seemed to rally considerably.

The physicians gave up all hope at their noon consultation, for they found their patient in a considerably worse condition hen than they had left him when they were at his bedside early in the morning, and even early in the morning he was considered worse than he had been the night before when the prospect seemed brighter than it had been since the operation was

At the consultation last night at 10 o'clock, which was the first held after the 1 o'clock consultation, the doctors found the governor in an improved condition.

All of them expressed more hope than they had indulged at the morning consultation and some of them even went so far as to say they thought he would certainly recover if he could hold out twe've hours more without a change for the worse. Dr. Westmoreland was one of these.

"I gave up hope at the 1 o'clock examina tion," said Dr. Westmoreland, "but I have regained it tonight since I have seen the patient. His general condition is better than it has been since the morning after the operation was performed. Of course he is yet in a critical condition-almost desperate condition, but when we consider that it has now been forty-eight hours since the operation was performed and the better, this counts for a great deal more than when we found him better at this time last night, which was but twenty-four hours after the operation was performed. The conditions we found at the 1 o'clock consultation, however, were frightful. The patient's expression was bad. His general condition was worse than his expression. It is wonderful how he has kept up under all that has befallen him, and but for his force of mind he would probably have been dead before now.'

Dr. Holmes, who has probably been less encouraging in his prognosis of the case all along than the majority of the physicians, was forced to say last night that the patient's condition was improved over that which had been observed during the

"I do not regard him as safe yet by any means," said Dr. Holmes, "nor do I say the chances are much in favor of his recovery, but it is certainly true that his condition tonight is better than it has been at 1 o'clock yesterday they found their patient even worse than he had been early in the morning.

It was then that they gave up hope and even those who had held out encouragement in the forenoon now gave up all vestige of promise for the recovery of the pa-

They adjourned from the consultation room to have no more regular meetings, but to spend most of their time at the sanitarium. This scattered terror among the members of the family and the intimate and most concerned friends, who looked to every action of the doctors as indicative of hope or discouragement.

The afternoon was spent by the patient without the slightest change, and it was only last night at 6 o'clock that he seemed to rally from his frightful condition and give sign of improvement.

Attorney General Joe Terrell begged the privilege of going into the room and was admitted. He did not face the patient and only wanted to look at him, but somehow the governor saw him and called him to his side.

"Joe," said he, and his face seemed to brighten just a little, "are the boys out there?

Seeing that he probably referred to his brothers, Attorney General Terrell replied: "Yes, Will, they're here, but don't bother about talking; it may hurt you, old fellow.' "No; just tell the boys that this is a hard fight, but I am going to whip it if I can." Colonel Terrell was greatly elated at this sentiment from the lips of his friends who but an hour before was called in a dying condition by the evening papers sold on the streets. He went at once across the street to the governor's mansion, where all the friends of the governor from a distance had been spending the day, and told them what the patient had said.

It scattered great hope among the gloomy friends of the governor everywhere. Mrs. Atkinson's Condition.

Great alarm has been felt everywhere for Mrs. Atkinson under all these trials. She was recently brought home from the hospitals of the north where she has been under treatment for her weakened condition.

It was but natural upon the part of sympathizing friends to feel extraordinary symphathy for her in all that she has

IN SORE TROUBLE.

Republicans at Cleveland Are Confronted by the Silver Faction,

GOLDBUGS ARE GREATLY DISTRESSED

They Desire To Keep the Financial Question Behind the Scenes.

A BITTER FIGHT IN THE COMMITTEE

All Night the Two Wings Wrangle-A Split in the Party Is Sure To Come. Some Are Trying To btraddle.

Cleveland, O., June 19 .- Whether there will be discord or harmony in the convention of the National League of Republican Clubs depends on which of the two factions wins the fight that is now being quietly but none the less earnestly waged outside the convention hall.

That the main battle will not be made while the delegates are assembled for business now seems to be assured. The two parties into which the convention is divided are each determined and each anxious to carry its point. One of the parties consists of the conservative members of the republican ranks, who do not believe it would be wise for any declaration of principles in the shape of a platform to be made. This faction deprecates any action which might be construed as a dictation to the republican national convention of 1896 and declares it would be in the worst possible taste if not demagogic to attempt to lay out a course for the party, whether financial, tariff or other kind. The other element is warmly urging the adoption of some sort of a platform. Those composing it argue that should the convention go on record before the country as having apparently avoided any issue of importance it would be accused of cowardice and of being afraid to let the people know whether it stood on the side of the white or the yellow metal.

Meanwhile the leaders are puzzled and tonight are in a quandary. There is no middle course and to adopt either of the ones proposed would call for a certain amount of censure. It is believed, howthat the conservative are gaining ground, and that they will dominate before an adjournment is taken.

Of those who want a platform adopted all are not silver men, but all the silver men are in their ranks.

The committee on resolutions is the place where the battle is to be fought. The committee organized this afternoon by electing Congressman John B. Robinson, of Pennsylvania, chairman and Horace G. Knowles, of Delaware, secretary. It was a very close fight for Congressman Robinson and it is a significant fact that the man who came near beating him for the chairmanship was a silver man-Congressman Tawney, of Minnesota. On the first ballot the vote was a tie and on the second the Keystone statesman won by three votes, the ballot being 17 to 14.

A motion, which was finally adopted, to appoint a subcommittee of nine who should formulate a platform to be submitted to the full committee, was presented and debated at length. It was during the debate on this resolution that facts already stated as to a division of sentiment on the platform question locame apparent.

Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, offered the following resolution, which, needless to say, providing as it does for a suppression of all sentiment of whatever kind on the part of the convention, created a profound sensation:

Both Gold and Silver. "We approve the declaration of the republican national convention that-"The American people by tradition and interest favor bimetallism and the republican party demands the use of both gold and silver as a standard money with such restrictions and under such provisions, to be determined by legislation, as will sethe maintenance of a parity of value of the two metals, so that the purchasing and debt paying power of the dollar, whether of silver, gold or paper, shall be at all times equal.

"And we refer the matter of more specific declarations to the next national republican convention, which alone has the power to bind the party or make a platform and declare principles."

This resolution was declared out of order because the motion to appoint a subcom-mittee of nine was already before the com-mittee. It was therefore not acted upon. In presenting the resolution Senator Thurs-

"We cannot be too careful what we do in this convention. We must not stand in the this convention. We must not stand in the role of dictators to the national convention, nor, on the other hand, must we let it be said of us that we were afraid to assert ourselves before the country. Yet, on the whole, I do not think it would be well for us at this time to commit ourselves to any policy which would be better conserved by the national republican convention.'

According to Programme.

Today's convention was carried out entirely according to programme. The speakers were D. D. Woodmansee, chairman of the Ohio delegation, who made the address of welcome; Mayor McKisson, who presented to the delegates the freedom of the city, and President W. W. Tracy, of the league. Over 2,000 delegates from every state in the union but Maine, New Hamp-shire and North Carolina were in their seats when the gavel dropped for order, be-sides a number of visitors of both sexes sides a number of visitors of both sexes who came with the delegates and heaped up the full measure of enthusiasm.

Music, flowers, flags and streamers were abundantly provided and the arrange-ments were perfect. Each delegate and press representative was furnished with a programme, which served also as a ticket of admission to various places of amu ent. In addition excursion, banquet and street car tickets were provided.

The First Delegation Arrives. The first delegation to enter the hall caused great applause from the spectators who had already assembled. At its head was a pretty brunett, bearing a silk United States flag in her hand. It was Miss Fronnie Knowiton, of Van Buren, Ark., daughter of the head of the delegtion. This delegaquickly followed by others, and when the convention was called to there were bout 4,000 persons present, three-fourths of whom were delegates. Every delegate wore the badge of his state and a few were so conservative as to wear also badges of either silver or gold as indicating their choice on the cur-rency question. There were many colored delegates among those who sat in the convention, and not a few of the delegations were accompanied by a number of fair enthusiasts who clapped just as loudly and yelled just as lustily as the most ar-dent desciple of Lincoln's principles.

Just before the convention began there was considerable discussion as to who was considerable discussion as to who would be the president of the league, in place of W. W. Tracy, who will resign. It was, however, practically acknowledged on all sides that General McAlpin stood the best chance, in fact that there would be nobody else in the race to stay. It is known that the silver vote will be cast almost solidly for McAlpin.

The convention was opened by a song by the National Republican League Glee Club, a body which sprang into existence for the occasion. They recited how the democrats would be surely snowed under in 1896, and for an encore told it all over again to another air.

After the band had augmented the enthuslasm by playing a medley of patriotic airs, Rev. Lloyd Darsei, of Cleveland, called down divine blessings on the assemblage. A call of states by the secretary showed them to be represented as follows: Alabama 22, Arkansas 34, California, 5, Col orado 18, Connecticut 22, Delaware 4, Florida 1, Georgia 5, Idaho 4, Illinois 98 and 98 alternates, Indiana 62 and 62 alternates, Iowa 54, Kansas 30, Kentucky 54, Louisiana 34, Maryland 34, Massachusetts 20, Michigan 58 and 130 alterntes, Minnesota 38, Mississippi I, Missouri 64, Montana 14, Nebraska 31, Nevada 10, New Jersey 10, New York 148 and 250 alternates, North Dakota 12, Ohio 94, Oregon 12, Pennsylvania 130 and 250 alternates, Rhode Island 14, South Carolina 14, South Dakota 18, Tennessee 50 and 50 alternates, Texas 27, Vermont, 7, Virginia 12, Arlzona 4, District of Columbia 10, New Mexico 12, Oklahoma 4, Utah 14, and the American republican college league 10-total of 2,280.

The Fight for Silver Foreshadowed The organization then began by slips being passed to each state to fill out with the names of members of committees. While this was being done, the coming fight on the silver question was foreshadowed by a motion made by Hon. H. Clay Evans, of Tennessee, that all resolutions be referred to the committee on resolu-tions without debate. This was adopted and the convention adjourned until tomorrom morning at 10 o'clock. There will be mass meetings tonight and tomorrow afternoon. Tomorrow afternoon the silver fight is be a sort of free for all, where everybody can speak who wishes to do so and on whatsoever subject he pleases On the committee on resolutions are the

The choice for the meeting ground of the convention in the presidential year fell upon Milwaukee.

Since 8 o'clock tonight the committee on resolutions has been in session and was still in session at midnight. The commit-tee has taken no formal action on any-thing. In accordance with the resolution passed at this afternoon's session of the committee the evening was devoted to an informal discussion of anything. The sub-committee on resolutions which will do all the real work was tonight appointed by Chairman Robinson as follows: Hon. John B. Robinson, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the general committee, ex-officio; Hon. J. A. Tawney, of Minnesota; James H. Hark-ness, of Missouri; Henry B. Blackwell, of Massachusetts; L. M. Hubbard, of Conecticut: C. E. Allen, of Utah: S. Robinson, of New York; Hon. Fred W. Dubois, of Idaho; W. W. Curry, of the District of Columbia; H. H. Coke, of Oregon; R. A. Mosely, Jr., of Alabama; George W. Murray, of South Carolina. The committee meeting has been a secret one all along.

The silver men tonight are still hopeful. but their chance of getting a plank in the platform nailed down with silver spikes seems even further off than it did yester-

KENTUCKY PRIMARIES.

Returns So Far Indiente That Hardin Will Be Nominated for Governor.

Louisville, Ky., June 19.-Returns from Monday's primaries are still far from complete, but results thus far indicate that General Hardin will receive the nomination from the democrats for governor at next week's convention. The votes in the convention number 879 and of these about 700 have been heard from. Hardin leads Cassius M. Clay, Jr., by nearly fifty votes. One hundred counties will send uninstructed delegates. The currency question will figure prominently, the gold standard men at present holding the whip hand.

Rallying to Silver.

Nashville, Tenn., June 19 .- (Special.)-The Nashville Free Coinage Club is preparing for a grand rally next Monday night at Watkins hall. Speeches will be made by Congressman Jam's D. Richardson, ex-Congressman B. A. Enloe and Editor E. W. Carmáck, of The Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION. The Fight Goes to the Federal Parliament.

Winnipeg, Man., June 19.—The final vote on Premier Greenway's motion refusing the Ottawa government's order on separate schools was reached tonight and resulted in a majority of fifteen. The figures stand 25 for and 10 against. It is improbable that the school matter will be referred to again to the federal parliament at Ottawa.

A Railroad Station Burned.

Bluefield, W. Va., June 19.—The Norfolk and Western railway station at Coopers ten miles west of here, was destroyed by fire tcday together with Clark's hotel, Green & Sons' store and a half dozen dwellings. John Cooper's store of merchandise was damaged to the extent of $3,500. Total loss was $12,000.

Aldrich Vindicated.

Denver, Col., June 19.—Investigation of the Aldrich matter shows that under no circumstances has he in any manner propriated any money of the Colorado curifies Company to his own use.

HILL AT FERNANDINA

The Lieutenant Is Mixing Up with the Cuban Insurgents.

THOUGHT TO BE LOADING A VESSEL.

Suspected To Be Representing an Arms Manufacturing Company.

HE HAS HAD PLENTY OF EXPERIENCE

Was on the Nictheroy in the Brasilian Revolution-He May Slip Over to Cuba.

Fernandina, Fla., June 19 .- (Special.)-The most suspicious and sensational incident which has occurred in Cuban revolutionary affairs here since the arrival and seizure of the yacht Toganda was occasioned today by the visit to this city of Lieutenant Charles Homer Hill, of Atlanta. Lieutenant Hill within twenty months has played an active part in two revolutions, the Brazilian war in 1893 and the present one in Cuba.

Lieutenant Hill's present mission is shrouded in mystery and the authorities, as well as those who have been watching the insurgents' movement in this vicinity, look upon him with grave suspicion. His close relation with the Cuban leaders in this country, together with the fact that he has been closeted with Cuban sympathizers since he first arrived, suggested the idea that something of an unusual nature was about to happen. Hill was, therefore, watched and the names of those with whom he was consulting were ascertained. One of these gentlemen admitted that Lieutenant Hill would sooner or later prove a valuable man to the cause on account of his knowledge of Cuba, as well as his training and experience. Gradually it was drawn out that besides his personal interest in the matter, he was here representing Charles R. Flint, the president of the Consolidated Arms Company, which was the agent for the Brazilian government and also fitted out the Itata. Although it is positively known that such is a fact, Hill endeavors to prevent suspicion by apparently representing the Glencove machine works, of Brooklyn. In his capacity as agent for Flint his business here is to equip with arms and amnunition the expedition which is presumed to be getting in readiness somewhere in the vicinity. Just what arrangements he made with those in charge of that part of the work could not be found out, but he is apparently well satisfied with his visit.

Lieutenant Hill had with him a specimen of a new infernal machine which he has just invented and which may soon play a part in the destruction of Moro castle, the Spanish citadel at Havana. He is said to be arranging with the insurgents to take quite a number of these machines. It is understood that he will probably 'return to Cuba within a short time to consummate matters now in progress.

Those who are in a position to know a thing or two about the insurgents' movements, are of the opinion that Leutenant Hill's departure will be simultaneous with the departure of the largest and most fully equipped expedition that ever left the United States. As is intimated above, Lieutenant Hill is a man with a past, so far as expeditions and revolutions are concerned. He graduated at the naval academy at Annapnine years of age. He had been engaged in civil engineering for several years previous to the Brazilian revolution, at the breaking out of which he volunteered to go with the Nictheroy as executive officer of the flag-during the entire revolution. Engagements with the Insurgents. Santiago de Cuba, June 19 .- General Navarro reports that the troops under his command have had an engagement with a rebel band under Garzon at Santa Rosa and captured their camp, together with a quantity of arms, etc. Many of the rebels were killed. The government loss was three seriously wounded. Colonel Michelenau's column has routed Rabi's band at Mogote. Four prisoners and a quantity of arms were captured by the Spaniards. The government force lost one killed and one wounded.

BISHOP HARGROVE TO MARRY.

He Is Sixty-Five and Weds Bishop Hendrix's Mother-in-Law.

Nashville, Tenn., June 19.-(Special.)-Rt. Rev. R. R. Hargrove, the venerable bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, left tonight for Kansas City, where on Friday he will lead to the altar Mrs. Scarratt, mother-in-law of Bishop Hendrix, also of the Methodist Episcopal church, south. Bishop Hendrix will leave for Kansas City tomorrow morning and will perform the marriage ceremony for his brother bishop. There are but few here who know of the approaching marriage. Bishop Hargrove is president of the board of trustees of Vanderbilt university. He is sixty-five years of age. His prospective bride is said to be slightly his junior.

TRIED TO KEEP IT QUIET, But It Will Turn Out Another Senon-

tion in the Fair Wheat Deal. San Francisco, June 19,-It was stated last evening that another millionaire estate was involved in the late disastrous Fair wheat deal, and that since the ex-senator's death most strenuous efforts have been made to keep the matter secret. Large sums of money are said to have been given to those who knew of the deal to close their mouths on the subject. The startling dis-closures made by L. W. McGlaufiln are said to be but trifles to those which will be made when his suit for accounting with his partner comes up in court.

A Forger's Outfit. London, June 19.-The plant of Mendal

A number of French, German and Belgian witnesses were examined by the grand jury today. The American expert who is to testify at the trial has not yet arrived. The cree has excited interest in official and mercantile circles.

Thursday, 4 o'clock a. m.-An official bulletin given out from the sanitarium at this hour says: "The bulletin issued at 10:30 o'clock last night w maintains. The governor has absolutely lost nothing since 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. He has passed a fair night, sleeping fairly well. He has taken some nourishment and has not vomited up to this hour."

"Tell the boys it's a hard fight, but I am going to whip it if I can." These are Governor Atkinson's own words spoken last night to Attorney General Joe Terrell, and they tell more than anything else could possibly tell of the condition of the patient. The wondrous will power of the governor may pull him through the terrible ordeal after all that has been said. His chances were pronounced last night brighter by the attending physicians than they have been since the morning after the operation was all day. I am greatly alarmed because we cannot secure action of the bowels, which seem to have become dead from congestion. If we can overcome this I shall feel far more hopeful than I have yet seen reason to feel."

All of the doctors agreed on this point. "If his physical constitution was but a trfle stronger he would certainly pull through all right," is what Dr. Nathan O. Harris said. "If his physical strength was only half what his will power is he would get all right."

All of the physicians were more hopeful last night than they had been in the afternoon and at 1 o'elock.

But they were by no means cheerful to any degree of extraordinary encouragement. They declared that the governor might change for the worse at any time, but they thought his change would be gradual whether for the worst or for the best, and not sudden.

After midnight they declared that there could be no sudden change, and they thought when the change did come it would be very slow and gradual.

They all acknowledged that every minute that the patient lived now meant more than it did twenty-four hours ago, for after operations of this kind the very fact that the patient was alive forty-eight hours afterwards and doing no worse was a good indication.

The condition of the governor all yesterday, however, was critical, indeed, and the doctors were more gloomy than they had yet been when they called early in the morning to have their consultation after

They have been coming up every day from Newnan and neighboring towns to inquire about him and have spent most of their time at the governor's mansion or around the doorsteps of the Halcyon, the celebrated sanitarium where the patient has been ever since the operation was performed.

More than thirty prominent Georgians were at the mansion all yesterday, Judge Alle Fort, Judge Hamilton McWhorter, Hon. Fleming duBignon, Hon. W. H. How ard, Hon. Price Gilbert, Dr. McIntosh and many others being among them.

Faithful Nurses These. His Constitution Not Strong. The strain on Governor Atkinson has been simply terrific. Ever since he undertook the gubernatorial campaign, a year ago, he has not known a single moment, perhaps, that was ab: olutely free of some care, and has not enjoyed a single comfort, perhaps, without some alloy. His campaign is well remem-

the fluctuations bere more heavily each moment upon the patient, and all day Sunday his suffering was intense. Several other physicians were called into consultation and they all agreed that the governor was afflicted with appendictis of the most malignant type and that an operation should be performed at once. Monday morning came. The governor was resting so much easier that the doctors decided to defer the operation until another change came for the worse. On Monday afternoon they decided that the governor's condition de-manded the operation without further delay. Before any steps were taken, how-ever, Dr. Willis Westmoreland and Dr. McRee were sent for for consultation. These two physicians were not allowed to converse with those who had decided in favor of an operation, but Dr. Willis West-moreland stated positively after a thor-ough diagnosis, that the patient must un-

Possessor of all that vigor and trrepressible determination of young manhood, with fuli ard fair realization of the great odds he would have to play in the campaign, he hurled his heart in the great battlefield of Georgia politics, with a resolution nothing short of the wonderful, and with a will as firm as the rock of Gibraltar.

He was young, both in years and political struggles, while his adversary was one of the most distinguished of Georgians, with a name a household word from Tybee to Ternessee. He had no money save that which came as a product of his unswerving labors for the sustenance of his family. All odds were against him, but when he made up his mind to become a gubernatorial cand'date he made up his mind at that self-same moment to become governor of Georgia How It Weakened Him.

Physical constitutions far more stalwart than his own would have trembled in fear at the outlook, but W. Y. Atkinson had a will tenfold stronger than his physical con stitution. Unto this mighty will the physical man has made dreadful sacrifices. During the campaign he rode night and day to meet engagements for his public speeches. From town to town be journeyed day and night, whether by rail, by buggy or by borseback. He lost countless hours or sleep. When the campaign closed he sat in the gubernatorial chair, a mere shadow of his former self.

Then came the arduous task of guarding the best interests of the state amid th scenes of a new and untried legislature Many important measures came up for dis-cussion during the time, which required most careful study before the governor's signature could be conscientiously placed upon them in approval.

This was not all. His Domestic Troubles.

Demestic troubles arose consequent upon the delicate condition of Mrs. Atkinson. This was a terrible blow to the governor, which, while faminar to the cannot be fully understood or appreciated by individuals who have not known what it is to see their fondest comrade in the storm of life swept from them by a dread disease and placed under the guardianship of hospital physicians. How heavily it bore down upon Georgia's governor cannot be told in empty, idle words. How strong must be the heart, how glant-like the phys-ical constitution to withstand such blows as most dread disease, perhaps, known to modern surgery-appendicitis. Then Came the Attack. The blow fell heavy upon the weak and helpless man. Had his physical constitu-tion been as strong as his will power it would have been bad enough, but with it weakened by repeated and successive tripitiful, indeed. Governor Atkinson was no well all last week. He transacted much bushuge sofa in the spacious parlors of the de partment at the statehouse. During the latter part of the week he went to Athens to attend the meeting of the board of trustees of the University of Geor-gia. The excitement and inter-est of the work there buoyed up his spirits and bore him through; but when he came back from Athens late last Satur day afternoon he little dreamed how se were his internal disarrangements. supper at the governor's man ion with his loving wife and family, he walked down town to see friends at the Kimball house. After spending an hour with them he returned to the mansion and retired early. At o'clock in the morning he was awakened by the dreadful and heavy touch of this direful disease, and at once realized that his allment was no trifling one. He awaked his wife and told her that he riously ill and that the doctor must be sent for at once. In great excitement and distrees a messenger was hurried across the street to Dr. J. Br. S. Holmes, who, within a wondrously short time was beside the bed of the governor, making a thorough diagrams of the case. In the meantime delay. Dr. McRae, while not so emphatic, declared that it could be no worse for the operation to be performed.

Review of the Case.

It was decided to operate that night. The governor was aware of his danger and bravely determined to face all adversities like a man. He consented to the operation with heroic courage and sending for Judge Hopkins, the celebrated counsellor at law, made his will and resignedly placed him-self in the care of the seven physicians, including Dr. North, his old family physician, of Newnan, Ga.

It was decided to take the governor to the Halcyon Sanitarium, over which Dr. Holmes presides, and at 11 o'clock Monday night the operation began. The patient was put under the influence of ether. Dr. Holmes wielded the knife, assisted by Dr. Nicolson, Dr. Westemoreland and all the rest who stood beside the table whereon The ether was lay Georgia's governor. The ether was administered by Dr. Nathan O. Harris. The history of the operation is familiar to all. An incision of nearly four inches was made in the right side near the pel-vic region, and with considerable difficulty the appendix was found in a terribly distorted condition and lying in an opposite direction to its normal position. It was cut out and within it was found two stony secretions the size of popcorn and harder than slate. Many evidences of former attacks were found, and it was clear with the presence of peritontitis, which had al-ready set in, that the governor would have died within forty-eight hours, if the operation had not been performed.

Since the operation the fluctuating condition of the governor has been made known in every detail through the columns of The Italian Deputies Engage in a Free Fight in the Chamber. Rome, June 19 .- A stormy incident occurred in the chimber of deputies today, during the debate on the address in reply to the king's speech. A radical deputy spoke In favor of amnesty to political and other offenders, whereupon Premier Crispi de-clared that the government would propose that the king's mercy should extend to peasants and others who had been misled, but certainly not to the leaders of the revolt.

The utterance was vociferously applauded by the majority. When the applause had subsided Signor Crispi attempted to continue his remarks, but was interrupted by cries of all sorts from the radicals. Some members of the majority reproached the radicals for their conduct nd for a time there was a violent exchange of invectives.

A number of deputies descended to the center of the chamber, which soon became backed. A struggle followed in which there were many blows struck and the sitting had to be suspended. The president ordered the galleries cleared and everybody to be excluded from the chamber who was not connected therewith. A deafening up-roar followed, which was continued for fif-teen minutes. Finally order was restored and the sitting was resumed. The presi dent severely rebuked the disorderly ties and announced that he would enforce rigorous measures if such unseemly conduct was again indulged in

The address in reply to the king's speed was adopted by a large majority.

WELSH RADICALS DISPLEASED At Gladstone's Action and Think He

May Go to the Conservatives. London, June 19 .- It is learned that Mr Gladstone asked the liberal whigs to break his pair with Mr. Villiers at the time the Welsh church disestablishment entered the committee stage because he thought that the proposals for dealing with the property of the church after disestablishment had became a fact were somewhat harsh. As he had not wished to make his appearance in the house he paired in favor of the bill. He does not now intend to appear in the house either to speak or to vote. The committee stage of the bill began today. The government has further acsimilar nature to the ones placing schools and public chapels under a representative body instead of disendowing them entirely This was done with the object of ing Mr. Gladstone's objections to the bill. Nevertheless the Welsh radicals are displeased and declare that Mr. Gladstone is returning to the political faith of his youth and will die a conservative.

Mr. C. J. Darling, unionist member for Deptford, asked whether the government intended to proceed with the Welsh church disestablishment bill in view of the fact that Mr. Gladstone had intimated that the measure did not have his approval.

The question was not answered.

CLAMOR FOR A NAVY.

Great Russia's.

Tokio, Japan, June 2, Via Victoria .- (Staff Correspondence.)-Since peace has been declared the statesmen of Japan are giving much attention to the future of the

Among the people the great clamor is for the building of a navy strong enough to wipe the Russian navy from the seas.

The navy is to be increased, but Japan's financial condition, even taking into account the indemnity to come from China, will not permit her to surround her shores with her own warships immediately. Yet the next session of the diet is certain to make provision for new vessels and it is quite certain that several of them will be built in America.

While Japan has developed wonderfully n a few years, she cannot yet build the highest type of the war vessel.

Viscount Tani, one of the great men of Japan, has just contributed an article to one of the native papers on national defense which well expresses conservative sentiment in Japan. In this article he

"An aggressive policy on the part of Japan," he says, "is incompatible with the resources of the country. The only judicious course for Japan is to confine her ideas to the maintenance of a purely defensive armament. At the present time hot-headed men are accustomed to brag about the necessity for Japan of annexing the entire Chinese empire; such idle boasts serve merely to arouse suspicions in the serve merely to arouse suspicions in the minds of foreign powers and should be avoided by those that have their country's true interests at heart.

"Having determined that an aggressive scheme of armament is entirely unsuited to Japan, we have next to determine the degree of strength necessary for successful defense of the empire. Many advocate that Japan should have a force canable that Japan should have a force capable of coping with three or four European powers at once, since an emergency might conceivably arise in which some such hostile coalition might be formed against Japan; but it is hardly possible to suppose that the resources of Japan are adequate to the maintenance of such a force as this would require. Even in Europe no power can be pointed out strong enough to stand against three or four of the other powers combined. How much more im-possible would it be to defy such a hostile coalition when the country standing alone was, as Japan now is, already ex-hausted by war, while the powers forming the coalition were fresh and ready for the fray. For a nation to resolve to fight under such circumstances, it must either be extremely brave or infatuated by fury.

Expense Too Heavy. "In order, then, wisely to determine upon a scheme of defense, it is necessary first of all to take into account the resources of the nation. In Japan the points requiring immediate attention are the building and the manning of forts, and an increase in the strength of the navy. Many appear to hold the opinion that the navy should be increased to a gross tonnage of 200,000 tons. But, if the object is merely defensive, there is no necessity for so large an increase. Not only is such an increase unnecessary; it is almost beyond the resources of Japan. Men-of-war be-come rapidly worn and out-of-date, and in order to keep a navy of 200,000 tons fit for effective service not less than 10,000 tons of shipping must be built every year. This alone would necessitate an annual expenditure of 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 yen. The maintenance of a navy of 200,000 tons would cost about 16,000,000 ven, and thus when we add the cost of new ships, the total annual cost of the navy would be not less than 23,000,000 yen. At the present time the cost of the army is about 12,000,000 yer a year. The combined cost of the army and the navy would then total nearly half the entire revenue of the country.

"Not merely would such an increase of the navy as that contemplated cripple the country by its cost; it would further, being taken as an index of an aggressive policy on the part of Japan, arouse suspicior among the European powers. War mus be avoided whenever possible, and it is especially necessary that at the conclusion of a war a belligerent, even if victorious should avoid arousing fresh enmity.

"When a war is in prospect it is ex-pedient for the intending belligerents to form secret alliances with other powers. There are many instances of such alliance in modern European history. It was owing to her want of any such secret assistance that Russia, at the conclusion of the Russo-Turkish war, was compelled to forego the greater part of the gains she had expected to reap from her conquest. If those who shape the foreign policy of Japan are adroit, there can be no necessity to maintain in time of peace any extraord pary force likely to cause an umbearable drain on the resources of the nation. De-fense is merely subsidiary to economic development and the task of vital importance for Japan today is to seek to velop to the utmost the resources of the development of her resources. As it is now the balance of trade is greatly in her favor. If that be increased by the increase of her manufacturing output Japa must grow rich.

Just now the wealth is not here, or no available, for the building of the manu-factories that would pay handsomely. Therefore public men of advanced ideas are advocating the battering down of the old law which prevents foreigners owning shares in Japanese corporations or owning in certain confined property except tions of the treaty ports.

That will probably be one of the great questions considered by the diet at its next session. There is, among many others, "a Japan for the Japanese" party here which vigorously opposes the ad-mission of foreigners further into Japan than the treaty ports. But the advanced element of Japan believes in the rapid de velopment of the country and the extension of invitations to foreign capital to comand aid, at the same time granting to reign capital all the privileges and foreign capital emoluments given to the natives.

Do you know that practically all the tea used in America comes from Japan's America takes Japan's entire crop. Do you further know that nearly every yard of silk sold in America comes from Japan? that nine-tenths of the toothbrushes you buy, whatever be their label, are made here? that china and pottery of every de-scription made in the world is imitated in Japan and shipped to America? that the Persian rugs you buy are largely made here? Indeed the Japanese imitate everything made in the world, and much of their imitations are made for American trade. With Japan on a silver basis and with soor practically nothing only a little yankee enterprise is needed for wondrous profits. When the country is thrown open, which will probably be within a year, our American manufacturers will have some American manufacturers will have some serious problems to contend with.

PASSENGERS IN PERIL.

A Car on the Lookout Mountain Incline Jumps the Track. Chattanooga, Tenn., June 19.-(Special.)-Suspended almost in mid air on the precipitous towering cliffs of Lookout this morn ing, passengers on one of the cars of the Chattanooga Incline railway hung for a mor ent between life and death, and only the instant action of the conductor in applying the automatic brake saved the car from demolition and the passengers from death.

Two cars are attached to the cable. As one goes up the other comes down. It is one of the longest and steepest roads of the kind in the country. Cars run every fifteen minutes. At 9:15 o'clock this morning a car left the Point hotel going down with Mr. R. W. Price, Mr. Hunt, Ed Troxel and Conductor John Mayberry within the car, while M. M. Henderson and W. B. Mitchell stood on the rear platform. A short distance down the mountain workmen had been engaged in repairing the track and one careless fellow had left a pick between the rails.

The implement threw the car from the track just as it was running on a high trestle. As soon as the wheels struck the ties and began to bump along Mr. Henderson and Mr. Mitchell jumped. The passengers in the car could not get out and were compelled to remain seated, to which fact they owe their lives, as the prompt application of the brake by Conductor Mayberry stopped the car before it had gone many feet.

Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Henderson were hadly injured. Mr. Henderson sustained frightful scalp wounds and internal injuries. Mr. Mitchell was cut on the head and painfully bruised. Both men are prominent in business circles. Mr. Mitchell is president of the Third National bank and the author of "Dollar, or What?" Mr. Henderson is a capitalist and speculator. They have had the best medical attention and are doing well tonight.

Cars will be running again in the morning. H. Clay Evans is president of the Incline, on which the accident occurred.

THE WIFE'S LETTER.

Magruder Introduces a Tell-Tale Note Which He Intercepted.

FULL OF LOVE FOR ANOTHER MAN

The Only Evewitness of the Tragedy Describes the Manner in Which the Husband Killed the Wife.

Greenville, Ga., June 19 .- (Special.) -- The time of the court yesterday was consumed in hearing the evidence for the state in the case of Magruder, who is charged with uxorcide. Today was spent in hearing evidence for the defense.

The testimony of Jane Pair, colored, the one eye-witness to the tragedy, makes the killing a most horrible butchery. Four times the enraged husband plunged the cruel knife into his wife's person. After woman had fallen, the defendant placed his knee upon her breast and deliberately struck his knife into the prostrate woman's throat, severing the artery and then held her head in his hands until life was extinct.

The prosecution will defend the character of the dead woman and will undertake to show that the killing was the result of unreasonable jealousy and passion. The neighbors of the deceased are firm in their conviction as to her innocence. The most sensational development of today was the testimony of Mrs. Frank Magruder, a sister of the murdered woman and a letter purporting to have been written by the deceased to J. H. Maddox. This letter was introduced in evidence by the defense and was as follows:

"At Home, October 29, 1894.—My Begt Friend: You can't imagine how much I regret Will's insulting you. I have cried and cried over it, but nothing seems to do me any good, but you know I still blame me for it, as I had nothing to do with it. I told nothing and never expect to, but am going to LaGrange about week after next. I hope to meet you there. I after next. I hope to meet you there. I gave Will the very mischief. Brother Frank pursuaded Will to do that, and sister, too, and I told him I never would for-give him for it until he asked Corgiveness from you and myself; that he insulted my best friend and I felt highly indignant. He said he was very sorry he hurt my feelings but could not say he was sorry for you. I told him I would never love him more, and that Brother Frank was not going to do anything for him when I was gone. He so good, and just as sweet to me as anybody you ever saw, but I can't help I can't love him since he insulted you save my life. You are dearer to me and vays have been than anybody on earth I hope you will meet me in LaGrange. I told Will I was going to see you again if it cost me my life, and he said all right; that he expected I would. Please excuse that he expected I would. Flease excuse this badly written letter, as I am in a hurry. You know E? • • • Will Hopkins is in it and also John White and fo others and no one will marry her too bad for anything. I will write you the day to go to LaGrange. Yours

Frank Magruder testified that the letter was genuine and that it was written by her sister. She stated that she had remonstrated with her sister, the deceased, about her conduct towards Maddox.

The Macon Hussars.

The Macon Hussars.

The Macon Hussars have returned from Camp Northen, where they spent yesterday on the rifle range. The Hussars did some fine shooting. Captain Bell, of the company, made a marksman's grade, which is next to a sharpshooter's, the sharpshooter's grade being the highest that can be attained. A score 30 entitles a person to a marksman's grade. Captain Bell yesterday made 110, which was only ten points below that of a sharpshooter. The company went to the range with thirty-six men in ranks and three officers. They carried their own provisions from Macon and cooked the same.

Entertaining Exercises at the School Commencement at the University of for the Deaf.

MANY ARTISTS IN THE INSTITUTION.

They Do Splendid Embroidery and Carving and Draw Skillfully-A Vacation for the Mutes.

Rome, Ga., June 19 .- (Special.) -- The closing exercises of the school for the deaf at Cave Spring occurred today.

Of the ninety-three inmates there are two Who graduate this year and go out into the world to make a living.

Six months ago Miss Bayard Morgan, of Newbern, N. C., was employed as teacher of art and physical culture and she has a class of which any institution in the country might be proud. They have been studying free hand drawing, art embroidery and wood carving, and the samples of their work show that the the unfortunates take very kindly to the work.

Several specimens of wood carving are beautifully done and the display of embroid-ery is wonderfully well done.

In physical culture they have made great progress, as was shown in an entertainment last evening at the college in the dumbbell exercises and Indian club drill, which were spendidly done, eliciting applause from the large audience present.

The effects of the physical training are also shown in the expanded chests, plump and well molded limbs, bright eyes and rosy cheeks. They go through the entire physical exercises, the different appliances having been manufactured at the institu-tion through Professor Cannon's skill and ingenuity for the most part. The pupils also acted in pantomime several farces in the most irresistibly laughable manner, a number of them being born actors, and with the keenest sense of humor. The Maypole dance by twelve little girls was exquisitely eautiful, and again illustrated the wonder ful amount of training they have received.

This year has been one of the most successful in the history of the institution. Professor W. O. Connor having devoted the better portion of his life to the work of better portion of his life to the work of educating deaf mutes, has surrounded himself with the most capable and efficient teachers to be found in the country, ami his untiring zeal and diligence are being remarked with good results in the advancement of the pupils under his charge.

The new building is being completed and will be ready for occupancy in a short time and will add much to the convenience of the school.

of teaching the inmates the useful ar s, such as scientific sewing, cooking and so on, for the girls, and printing, drawing, engraving wood carving and other vocations of a similar remunerative character for the boys. They take to all these very readily and seem to be very much interested in all such work.

One boy has evinced unusual talent as a painter and will probably follow it as a calling, having learned it at edd times around the buildings of the institute.

Tomorrow they will leave for their homes to spend the holbiays, except two or three who are state proteges and who will remain at the institute until the opening of the September term.

A MOB IS AFTER HIM.

Hornce Pierce, an Ex-Convict, Kills

James Powers, of Alabama. Rome, Ga., June 19.—(Special.)—News reached the city today of a terrible tragedy just across the line in north Alabama. Horace Pierce, a noted desperado who has been a terror in that section, had just been discharged from the penifentiary, where he had been serving a term for shooting into a mail train at Bluffton, Ala., four years

He began drinking and grew very overbearing. He visited the home of James Powers, a prominent farmer in Cherokee county. Alabama, against whom he seem ed to have a grudge. He became very of-fensive. Powers asked him to keep quiet when he drew a pistol and shot Pow through the heart, killing him instantly. Pierce made no attempt to escape and was arrested and conveyed to Centre the county site, and placed in jail.

Powers was very popular, and the killing created great indignation. The neighbors assembled and at last accounts were talking strongly of taking him from the jail and lynching him. Centre is at a distance from a telegraph station, and cannot be communicated with tonight. Excitement was running high at last account.

There was some testimony to the effect that Harris had been severely whipped, but he was also known to have been an unruly and obstinate negro. Dr. T. J. Charlton, of the commissioners who held an autopsy, testified that the negro's death was due to malarial fever. Three of the jurors have partially accepted the whipping side of the story and want to ring in a lot of criticism on the management of the convict camps. The other three have taken a conservative view, accepting the taken a conservative view, accepting the expert testimony to the effect that he died from malarial fever in preference to the other statement. GROWERS WILL ORGANIZE. Help Themselves.

In fact, the growers are incensed at the way the railroads are treating the indusway the railroads are treating the industry in the state when they claim to be encouraging immigration. The growers will organize and in some way work to their best advantage. It looks to the growers that the railroads are after "gobbling" up the entire fruit crop, and this being the case it will keep many new men in this section from planting trees and those already in the business from enlarging their orchards.

DEGREES AND HONORS ANNOUNCED

Pro'essor Sylvanus Morris Delivers the Baccalaureate Address-Trustees tain the Faculty in Belcher's Case.

Athens, Ga., June 19 .- (Special.)-The ninety-fifth commencement of the university closed today. It has been one of the most successful commencements ever held in the history of this venerable institution. The exercises conducted by the young gentlemen themselves were of the highest order of excellence, the orations of the chosen orators were eloquent and able, and the attendance upon the different exercises was by far the largest in the record of many years past.

Today was graduating day and the exercises at the chapel were full of interest. The chapel was filled to its utmost seating capacity and standing room could hardly be secured. The alumni of the institution marched with the graduating class

The opening essay was that of Mr. Moses Guyton, of Marianna, Fla., upon the subject, "Our Country's Chief Need." Mr. Guyton is the third honor man in the A. P. course and his essay gave evidence of much learning and thorough preparation.

Mr. Joseph J. Bennett, cf Jefferson, Ga., was the next speaker. His oration was on the subject "Undefeated by Defeat." It

Then came the two orations by the leaders of the law class, Messrs. Eugene Dodd, of Ford, Ga., and W. P. Warren, of Atlanta. Mr. Dodd spoke of "Conservatism the Hope of the Country." His oration was well-received.

The oration of Mr. Warren was the last of the programme. His subject was "The Unbuilding of Georgia" and his general was Evolution of Civilization.'

Upbuilding of Georgia" and his appeal was for the young men of Georgia to cast their lots at home and help in her upbuilding. Then came the baccalaureate address of Professor Sylvanus Morris to the graduating class and the law class. His remarks were sublimely beautiful and full of wisdom and good advice. He urged the boys to be true patriots, to be proud of their American citizenship, to rejoice that they were southerners and to love old Georgia. man, Mr. Meldrin, replied five minutes.

Mr. Hammond then spoke substantially as follows:

"Suffer me, fellow alumni, to use those minutes in a word to you.

"In 1878; when I first had a seat in the United States house of representatives, I naturally looked about Washington for such Georgians as were there. I heard of two polished ladies, daughters of a gentleman who was my father's tr'end, and whom I knew by reputation. I asked why they were there. The reason was given in this touching story:

"When their father was about to die he called them to his bedside, gave them the address of three gentleman and said:

When I am dead and buried write them that I told you to say to them that I left you nothing but an honrable name and their address, stating that each of them belonged to my secret society at Yale college.

"When the last sad offices were done the letters were sent, one to the then secretary of state, another to the then chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, and the third I do not recall to whom. The result was the daughters were soon comfortably housed in Washington, pleasant and remun-rative work was furnished them at their home and they noved it, society as the friends of the family of those high dignitaries. So much for the sentiments cultivated among noble men by those societies. "I arcse not to speak of them, but said so much to show that I do not fight them. But they supply not the damands of the literary societies, of which I would talk a moment valed among noble men by those societies.

"I arose not to speak of them, but said so much to show that I do not fight them. But they supply not the domands of the literary societies, of which I would talk a moment longer. Think not what I say is the carping of a gray-beard, but as the tender chiding of a loving brother.

"On yesterday I missed a familiar sight. For more than twenty consecutive years I have marched in procession, not under that Demosthenian flag hanging there, but under the Phi Kappa flags kept in our hall at the other side of the cumpus, and when in the chapel saw them held by their standard-bearers on either end of the stage. Yesterday there was no line of march formed. Demosthenians and Phi Kappas promiscuously straggled into the hall and saw there the chosen orator, surrounded by no brothers, no colors to indicate the nature of the occasion. The contrast saddened, aimost sickened me, and not meonly, but many who expressed to me their deep regrets.

"Why this was so I know not, nor now inquire. I mention it not for censure, but to fix your attention.

"Your secret societies are for the smaller circles, so to speak—the family circles; but these literary societies are for the aggregate body of the university and dear to the great heart of the state. The official board of trustees, the press of the state and its general assembly tell you of their past glories and the fruits they will bear if cultivated and urge and stimulate your attendance mon and love of them.

"Your men, who have in your keeping those flags, I beseech you never again to fail to have it em at their proper places on all proper occasions. Think them not useless. The hearts of the thousands of those who have for the larger part of a century felt their influence love them as rallying points in all the battles for this grand institution. If they have seemed trifles to requested the flags was modered into dust."

Colonel Billups had time to say he had witnessed the placing of those flags for fifty she can communicate with you.' The body was taken in charge by the Knights of Pythias and this morning it was embalmed, Dr. Goodloe having volunteered his services. The message from Atlanta also said that he belonged to the Knights of Honor, Elks, Knights of Pythias and Masons. The members of these organizations wired to several lodges, but none reported such a member. It is thought, however, that his claimed to be a Knight of Pythias was all right, inasmuch as he gave the correct grip to Professor Beeson.

"Your correspondent saw Dr. S. D. Smith today and learned from him that the man had been in his drug store the night before and told him of having been on a drunk for two weeks and asked him to lend him 35 cents to buy some bromidia with, in order to sober him up. The doctor gave him the medicine and instructed him how to use it, telling him to call around in the morning at 9-o'clock and that he would give him further treatment. This he failed to do. Dr. Smith says that an ounce of bromidia, the quantity which he gave him, would not kill a man whose conclision was normal. All of our other physicians also attest to this. There is a rumor that the deceasec had another vial with him, but if such is true it has never been found.

"Not having received any further instructions from Atlanta the body was decently buried at the Houston graveyard this afternoon: Messrs. E. W. Weiss, John Marshall, T. A. Hall and H. A. Monnier accompanied it. Rev. Henry Trawick conducted the services."

Hamburg. June 19.-The principal event of today was the arrival of the kaiser and imperial family. From noon to within a half hour of the arrival the streets were filled with carriages and cavalcades, taking the royal guests to receive their imperial chief. By 3 o'clock all had been arranged at the station. The kings of Saxony and Wurtemburg, the prince regent of Bavaria and the grand duke of Baden, with their staffs and ministers, took their places on the platform at 4 o'clock, while the streets outside were crowded with throngs of people, all eager to see the kaiser.

All vehiclular traffic was stopped in the principal streets of the town this afternoon Immense crowds of people traversed the thoroughfares, but there was no disorder. An elaborate luncheon was given in the Thiergarten this afternoon, which was partaken of by one hundred and twenty guests including the king of Wurtemburg and many other royal and princely personages, Chancellor Hohenlohe and a number of ministers and senators. After luncheon the uests entered carriages and at 1:15 p. m. drove to the Elbe, where they embarked on a steamer and made a round of the bor. They were loudly cheered. At the banquet, after the teast, "The Burgomaster," Dr. Lehmann, attired in a black gown with white rutles, arose and addressed the emperor and the other sovereigns. He made a long, deliberate speech, keeping the emperor and the king standing with glasses in their hands. He wound up by declaring that the canal was the greatest German enterprise and the occasion of its opening the most notable event in the history of Hamburg. The city had never before seen such an illustrious assembly as was now its guests. He ther drank to the German emperor and the German princes. The emperor returned thanks in an uncommonly guarded manner. His reply was mild and careful and of compara-tive shortness. He said he did not presume to accept the welcome which it was patent was not artificial, but spontaneous, for him-self, but which was for all the German sov-ereigns surrounding him. The canal was a great work of peace. There are, he added, seas that divide and seas that unite. This canal unites two great seas for commercial and defensive purposes. At this instant the iron-clad power of united Europe, lying in Kiel harbor, was the best self-evident proof of grauted peace.

A heavy thunder storm interrupted out door festivities at 9 o'clock, but its cessa tion allowed them to be resumed at

The company included Prince Henry of Prussia. all of the staff officers of the foreign squad-rons and a number of high officers of the German navy. The French admiral Menard was among the first of the visitors to arrive. He was to arrive with the usual honors, the beating of drums, etc., and was formally presented to Prince Henry. After dinner Prince Henry proposed a toast to the emperor. The sailors on board the visiting French ships all wear cockades covered with crepe in memory of President Carnot. The admirals and commanders of the foreign warships in the harbor were officially oduced to the commander of the port of Kiel this morning, which ceremony con cluded the official interchange of visits between the various foreign officers. Afterwards Prince Henry of Prussia, the com-manders of the foreign squadrons and many of the subordinate officers of all nations tion with which the government is in amity and friendship.

"This principal is universally acknowledged by the laws of nations. It lies at the foundation of all governments, as there could be no social order or peaceful relations between the citizens of different countries without it. It is, however, more emphatically true in relation to citizens of the United States. For as the sovereignity resides in the people, every citizen is a portion of it and is himself personally bound by the laws which the representatives of the rovereignity may pass, or the treaties into which they may cater, within the scope of their delegated authority. And when that authority has planted its faith to another nation that there shall be peace and friendship between the citizens of the two countries, every citize of the United States is equally and 'personally pledged. Montgomery, Ala., June 19.—(Special.)— For some time past the Midland shops have been quietly making a test of what is now conclusively proved to be a very valuable invention. It is a steam attachment for stationary, locomotive and marine engines, recently invented by Captain D. W. Branch, of this city. The thorough test of its practicability by the Midland company has shown that it has effected a savings in coal of slightly more than 35 per cent. Skilled machinists who have recently watched its workings say that it is an invention of inestimable worth and will make its inventor big rich. The attachment is simple and inexpensive, and can be applied to all engines. The railroad men say it is a great thing. invention. It is a steam attachment for

Indictments Found Against Seven Persons-A New Jersey Scandal.

Trenton, N. J., June 19.-Seven of the eight persons indicted here in connection with the statehouse frauds were arraigned to plead in the Mercer county court at 10 o'clock this morning, and all of them through counsel, entered pleas of not guilty, with leave to amend the plea in future for the purpose of other motions, except Mrs. Benedict Prieth, owner of the Newark Freie Zeitung.

Major Carl Lenz, her counsel, said: "On behalf of Mrs. Prieth I desire to enter a plea of not guilty without any reservation whatever and I sat for her a speedy trial, to which she is entitled."

Prescutor of the Pleas Stockston fixed July 22d next as the date and in reply to Major Lenz, who pressed for a still earlier date, the prosecutor said he would con-sider the matter.

Mrs. Prieth was released on her own recognizance. The other six defendants were bailed in sums from $500 to $1,000 to answer at the date fixed.

As ex-Superintendent Ford was not called to plead, the presumption is that the detectives have not found him yet. Coloacterives nave not found him yet. Colonel VanCleef's trial will be the first to take place. His counsel succeeded in having the original date altered to July 18th.

The indicted parties are John Mullins, the wealthy furniture dealer of Newark and Jersey City; John L. Kuser, John T. VanCleef, Otto Heinz and Emil Krutler, of New York, and Cherker of New York.

Will Myers Has To Listen to Some Unpleasant Testimony.

A VERY CLEVER CROSS-EXAMINATION.

"Mules, Mules, Mules! A Life for Mules!" Was Myers's Cry.

EIGHTEEN WITNESSES HAVE TESTIFIED

Strong Evidence Against the Defendant About the Tracks-Lorenzo Jones Was a Sansational Witness.

By his close and vigorous cross-examinations Attorney W. T. Moyers, leading counsel for the defense, lessened the weight of much of the testimony introduced by the state in the Myers trial yesterday.

On the other hand the evidence was of such a complicated nature that at times the attorneys as well as the witnesses seemed to be considerably muddled. The testimony regarding the tracks at the scene of the murder was gone into with remarkable detail and Mr. Moyers in crossexamining the witnesses led them rapidly from one set of tracks to another until the jurors wore puzzled looks.

The evidence, however, was all against Myers and there seems to be no palpable loophole in anything that the cross-examination brought out. Detective E. M. Cason was handled at some length in the cross-examination and some of his testimony at the coroner's inquest and the previous trial was brought up. It seems that at one time he believed that Myers had at least one accomplice and perhaps two, and Mr. Moyers brought this out with vengeful stress.

Steadily the web is weaving about the It is simply a question whether there will be a recommendation to mercy or not. The testimony yesterday showed how Myers had deceived the father as to the whereabouts of his son and how he attempted to sell the mules after he knew the owner had been killed, whether by his hand or that of the mysterious Brown Allen.

There was testimony to show that Myers had put his foot in the track leading back the body, but this testimony, al though given in the presence of the jury, was not objected to by counsel for defense until after the direct examination. It was then ruled out and by consent withdrawn from the jury. Later on by Captain J. M. Wright, which of the detections its most Wright, chief of the detectives, it was proved that Myers's shoe was put in the track of one of the men leading from the buggy and it fitted it perfectly. It was also shown that mud was cleaned off Myers's knee by a negro named Liggon and Myers told this negro that a mule had kicked him there. The state claims that this mud was occasioned by the slip when Myers attempted to jump the ditch and his shoe fitted in the tracks where the

and his shoe fitted in the tracks where the jump was made. The shoes of Crowley fitted into the other tracks.

Eighteen withesses testified yesterday and there was no delay occasioned by either side. It is very likely that the state will close this morning some time and it a question whether the defense will introduce any evidence. There have been not less than thirty-seven witnesses sworn for the defense, but it is known only to the the defense, but it is known only to the attorneys for Myers whether they will in-troduce any evidence. At the last trial there were several witnesses sworn, but none were introduced. Myers simply made his statement and the defense secured the closing argument, which was made by Attorney Moyers and was pre-eminently the speech of the case. If Solicitor Hill secures the closing speech the defense will be clearly at a disadvantage.

The first matter taken up yesterday morning was the question as to the testi-mony of Detective Meyers, of Cincinnati, regarding the name on the register by which he was directed to room 69 at the Indiana house. The attorneys for the state and defense introduced authorities and Judge Hart held that the objection of the Judge Hart held that the objection of the defense was not valid.

The following named witnesses were introduced yesterday:
Detective Wifliam Meyers, M. A. Bowden, Lorenzo Jones, C. J. Walker, I. M. Roberts, Dr. H. G. Carnes, Charley Stevens, A. R. Davidson, Jim Oliver, Detective E. M. Cason, John O. Crowley, Detective E. M. Cason, John O. Crowley, Detective Tom Ivey, Will Patton, Chief A. B. Connolly, T. C. Longino, G. B. Carlton, J. J. Coggins and Chief of Detectives Wright J. Coggins and Chief of Detectives Wright who was on the stand when court adjourned yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Conclusion of Meyers's Story When court adjourned yesterday after-tion Detective Meyers, of Cincinnati, was still on the stand. There was a question be disposed of also. The detective in his testimony had said that he looked on the register of the Indiana house and had seen the name Cunningham, of Memphis, Tenn. and then went to that room and found Myers, who gave his name as Cunningham. The defense objected to this, claiming that the highest evidence was the register, and that there could be no secondary proof until it had been shown that there had been made every effort to secure the register

The state wanted the testimony to go to show what was on the register and not simply to show the reason of Detective Meyers going to the room. The result was that Judge Hart overruled the objection of

The cross-examination of the detective was then begun. He stated in answer to a question that Myers had told him that he was to get Crowley out into Westwood park for Allen and that they were to murder

Attorney Moyers read his testimony in the previous trial in which the detective had testified that Myers had said that they were going to take him out to Westwood park and "do him." He asked the detective which was correct. Witness replied that both were correct, as he meant the same thing. He was then asked to repeat exactwhat Myers had said and he stated tha Myers told him that they were to kill Crowley. After a little more cross-examination the witness was permitted to go.

Had a Mania for Mule Selling. The next witness called for the state was M. A. Bowden, of Stewart & Bowden, the liverymen. His testimony was very concise. stated that he remembered the day Crowley was said to have been killed, and that on the morning of that day Myers had come to the stables and told him that he fed four mules. Witness didn't remember whether Myers said that he had bought them or wanted to sell them. At any rate, Myers wanted to know what would be the charge for leaving them at the stables. He was told 50 cents a head.

"Myers then got a buggy," said the wit-

"and paid the bookkeeper. He and Mr. Crowley, who was with him, got in the buggy. It was a piano box buggy with black body and black wheels. The horse was a light bay with two white feet and a glass eye."
Mr. Bowden also stated that he had received a letter about ten days previous to the day of Crowley's disappearance and the letter was purported to have come from Will Myers and was signed by him. It stated that Myers had some mules to the cross-examination witness stated On the cross-examination withess stated that he did not know whether or not Mywrote the letter, but that it was sign-by Will J. Myers.

The Buggy Muddy; Horse Warm. Lorenzo Jones, the livery stableman, was the next witness called. He told the story of meeting Myers on Whitehall street as Myers was driving back from Westwood park. The meeting occurred nearly in front of Nunnally's store on Whitehall.

"Myers stopped me," said the witness,
"and told me that he had the money now he had been owing me a bill for a buggy. He pulled out some silver and put it back and then pulled out a roll of money from his right hand trousers' pocket. The roll—the wrapper—was a twenty-dollar bill. He asked me if I could change $20 and I told him I could not. He said he would come to the office a little later, but he didn't. He owed me the bill six weeks or two months. I saw his father some days before and he said that Will was on a fishing frolic. I saw Myers when he re-turned and he told me that he didn't have turned and he told me that he didn't have the money then but that he had some mules he was going to sell and would have it. "I asked him why he didn't get the buggy from me when he had money—meaning the buggy he was then in. He told me that somebody else was paying for it. The buggy was muddy and the horse looked as if he had been driven hard. It was between 9 and 10 o'clock and he was driving toward Alabama street. It was a light bay horse with white feet It was a light bay horse with white feet and glass eye. I know the horse. It has been at Stewart & Bowden's two years or

Would Like To See Myers Dangle. The cross-examination of Jones was conducted by Mr. E. M. Mitchell, as Mr. Moyducted by Mr. E. M. Mitchell, as Mr. Moyers was not present at all of his testimony. "You sat behind the attorneys for the prosecution during the selection of the jury, Mr. Jones?" was asked. "Yes," he

"And aided them?" "Yes," answered witness, "all in my

"Because," replied Jones, "I'd like to see

"Because," replied Jones, "Id like to see him convicted and hung." "Why?" asked the attorney. "Because it was a cold-blooded and black-hearted murder, and Crowley's my kins

"Isn't it true that you want him hung because he owes you $3?

"I don't think I'm that mean," replied Then followed some fruitless sparring bethe witness. tween attorney and witness, during which no especial credit was reflected upon either

Myers Was Very Mercenary. According to the testimony of the next witness, Mr. C. J. Walker, the liveryman, Myers tried to sell Crowiey's mules after he knew that the room fallow had been he knew that the poor fellow had been killed; or, as the state contends and the evidence is rapidly going to show, after he had himself shot Country down, after he had himself shot Crowley down.

Mr. Walker testified that he knew Myers when he saw him. He remembered the day that Crowley is said to have disappeared, and on the morning of that day Myers came to witness' livery stable and said that he had some mules he wanted to sell. He said that he had four mules he wanted to sell and that they were at the stables of Stewart & Bowden.

W. T. MOYERS.

"It was about 10 o'clock in the morning," said the witness, "when Myers came to the stable and told about the mules and said that he would sell them for $250. I told him to wait until my brother came in and he would talk to him. He waited a while and then left." On the cross-examination it developed that a week before Myers had gone to the stables where witness was and said that he had four mules at Roswell. Mules Proved His Nemesis

I. M. Roberts, a conductor on the narrow gauge road between Chamblee and Roswell, was the next witness. He told how Myers had gone up as far as Dunwoody last June. He talked to witness and wanted to know if he knew about mules that were for sale and asked witness if he knew of a man named Darnell who bought mules in the spring and sold them in laying by time. Witness told him that Forrest Crowley had four good mules for sale.

"I also saw Myers," continued witness also saw Myers, continued witness, "on the first Saturday in August. He told me to tell Forrest Crowley that he wanted to buy the mules and would be over Monday. I sent word of this by Crowley's brother. I saw him on Saturday, August 15th. He went to Dunwoody and then to Roswell. He told me that he had something to do with handling goods for the Western and Atlantic and wanted seven or eight mules. He said he would give $600 for the four mules belonging to Crow ley if they were good ones."

On the cross-examination he said that he didn't know but that Myers did represent a transfer company.

Dr. H. G. Carnes Testifies. Dr. H. G. Carnes, the well-known veterinary surgeon, was called next. In one por-tion his testimony was very different from that of Lorenzo Jones. It was regarding the horse. Dr. Carnes, who has an office in the stables of Stewart & Bowden, testi-fied that the horse had been owned only a short time by the stables. Dr. Carnes stated that he saw Myers return and get out of the buggy. There was no one with him. He was there when the mules came but didn't hear what Myaid to Mr. Bowden.

Charley Stevens Drove the Mules. Charley Stevens, who brought the mules from Roswell to Atlanta, testified next. He told of leaving Roswell and of the directions given him by Myers in writing. He then showed the order and said that Myers had written it.

"After I got to the stables," said Stevens, "I waited for Forrest and Myers to come back. Finally Myers came. He told come back. Finally Myers came. He told me that he let Forrest out at East Alaha-ma street and that Forrest wanted me to go to Inman, Smith & Co.'s and meet him there. I told him what Myers said and we waited, but he did not come. I staid there nearly all day but did not see Myers again or Forrest." again or Forrest.

cross-examination was directed at Stevens's mustache and Mr. Moyers seemed anxious to establish the fact that Stevens dved it. This Stevens denied. Testimony of Night Clerk Davidson

A. R. Davidson, night clerk at Folsom's hotel, gave his testimony next. He told about finding the underwear, collar, cuffs and pocketbook in room No. 9, which had been assigned to Mr. C. D. Moerlin.

He identified the clothing and the pocketbook and also a pair of cuffs upon which there was some figuring. He moved the clothes from the room and marked the name Moerlin on the package. The Constitution Did It.

W. H. Duncan, day clerk of Folsom's, assigned Myers to room 9. He said that Myers registered as C. D. Moerlin and left shortly and without paying for the room. He told about the clothing. In The Constitution he saw a picture of Myers and recognized the man who had occupied room 9, and also remembered that he had met Myers before. He identified he had met Myers before. He identified the name on the register which was handed

Some Damaging Testimony. The next witness was the negro Charles Liggon, who cleaned the mud off Myers's

The state has been endeavoring to show all along that it was Myers who slipped in the ditch and whose knee struck the ground. The testimony of Liggon seems to clinch this.

Liggon testified that Myers came into his place on Pryor street and wanted his trousers and shoes cleaned. There was some mud on the trousers at the bottom and on the knee. Myers told witness that a mule had kicked him on the knee. He also told witness he had been running

On the cross-examination Liggon testified that there was not much mud on the trous-ers, but they looked as if a man had been ers, but they looked as if a man had been walking in a muddy road. Myers's statement that he did not leave the buggy is incompatible with this circumstance. Light gon said that it was between 9:30 and 10 o'clock in the morning that he cleaned the trousers.

Jim Oliver Testifies Jim Oliver, a negro, told how he pur-chased a pair of cuffs for Myers. He also said that Myers left the room at the hotel and bought some underclothing, which he put on in the room. Witness thought that the time was between 11 and 12 o'clock Detective Cason on the Stand. Detective Cason was sworn and told all about the finding of the body, the search and how Myers's shoes fitted in the smaller of the tracks and Crowley's in the larger

He then went over all the story of the tales told by Myers regarding Brown Allen and the Allen woman. Allen and the Allen woman.

Before beginning the cross-examination
Mr. Moyers asked the witness to draw a map of the tracks on the grounds. While Detective Cason was working on the map court adjourned for the noon recess.

An Endless Trail of Tracks. When the map was completed Mr. Moyers began the cross-examination of the witness. At times there appeared to be a veritable labyrinth of tracks, and the detec tive and the attorney were many times dis cussing different sets of tracks. This is up for about thirty minutes, when cross-examination was concluded with the jurors all trying to catch up with the tracks.

On re-direct examination Detective Cason said that Myers had said Brown Aller went over the hill with Crowley and final-ly came back and said that they had had a fight and that he had been forced to kill him. He said Myers told him that Allen threw a pocketbook in his face, gave the watch and the dlamond ring and told him that was his share. Witness said Myers then told him that he drove Brown Allen to the street car line

Regarding the Watch.

John O. Crowley, brother of Forrest, dentified his brother's watch. He also said that his brother had taken out some money the week before he went to Atlanta but witness didn't know the amount a the books of the business didn't show it. Detective Ivey testified that he got the watch from Kaiser's pawnshop. He iden

William Patton, a negro employed in Kaiser's pawnshop, told about those in the place reading of the killing and he saw Myers's picture and said that he was the same man that pawned the watch. The picture in The Constitution led to the dis overy and the police were notified.

Chief Connolly on the Stand. Chief Connolly was called next and told much the same that has already been gone over by Detectives Meyers, Bolan and Ca son and Mr. Seaborn Crowley and others

SOLICITOR HILL Mr. T. C. Longino, of West End, saw Myers drive but toward Westwood park with some one else and saw him drivin through West End alone about an hour

G. B. Cariton, of West End, saw Myers driving back alone. Both witness acquainted with Myers and have known him several years. J. J. Coggins, a salesman at Inman & Smith's, told much the same story as that of Mr. Seaborn Crowley. Captain Jim Wright Testifies. Captain Wright, chief of the detectives, was called to the stand. He told nothing new except the fitting of the shoes into the tracks by himself and Shoemaker Gaines, an expert. This testimony was ad-mitted under a ruling of the supreme court. The shoes, according to witness, of Myers fitted the tracks leading back to the buggy and going with the other tracks to the body. The other tracks were Crowley's. With Captain Wright on the stand court

EDMONSON FIRED.

He Did Not Throw Up His Hands When Craig Ordered.

Citizens residing near Spring and James streets were startled by a pistol shot about 11:30 o'clock last night.
In a remarkably short time several dozen people had emerged from their homes and congregated near the Handy terraces on Spring street to investigate. The shot was fired by W. F. Edmonson and was aimed at Jim Craig, an engineer in the employ of the Western and Atlantic

From what could be learned last night it seems that Edmonson was going to his room at the home of Craig's wife, on the orner of Spring and James streets, about 11:30 o'clock last night. When within a few yards of the house he was accosted by Craig, who was standing across the street only a few feet away.

Edmonson claims that Craig demanded that he throw up his hands, at the same time pointing a pistol at him. Edmonson refused to do as he was ordered by Craig, but, instead, pulled his own pistol and fired one shot at the latter, then went towards Peachtree street for an officer to arrest his assailant. Call Officer

Tysor responded, but Craig had gone. Patrolman Charles Martin was found by Edmonson and he arrested Craig in haif an hour several blocks away. The latter went to the station house and was released on a copy of charges shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

The cause of the trouble between the two men could not be learned, both declining to talk about the affair after the shooting It was learned that Edmonson rents room in the house of Craig's wife and it is said that Craig was lying in wait for Ed-monson last night with a pistol in hand. Craig said last night that he would swear warrant for Edmonson this morning charging him with assault with intent to murder.

The case will be heard in police court at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

NOT PROSECUTED.

Gip South and James Hooper Will Be

Sent to a Reformatory. Gip South and James Hooper, the two young men charged with having stolen two horses belonging to Drake Bros., the Marietta street bakers, will be sent to a reformatory school and not prosecuted for the crime, which they admit having committed.

The two boys were arrested several days ago and have been arraigned before Justice of the Peace Foute every day this week, for a preliminary examination, the case being postponed each time for some reason unknown until yesterday, when a settle ment of the case was reached without the boys being tried. It seems that the friends and relatives of Hooper, who are well known and influential people in the city, have been making strong efforts to secure the release of the young man, and yesterday Drake Bros. were compensated for the loss they had sustained, and by consent of the arresting officers and all parties concerned Judge Foute agreed to let the case stand just as it was with the agreement that the boys would be sent to a reformatory school by their parents.

Hooper is a very young man and has never been in trouble of the kind before. His relatives claim that his association with G.p South' brought the present disgrace upon him.

Gip South is an old offender. Although not over nineteen years of age, he has served several terms in the chaingang for different crimes. He has been in the courts almost constantly during the last few years and appears to be a hardened criminal. He has stolen several horses in his time and any number of other things less valuable.

The two boys were released on bond late yesterday afternoon and will probably be sent to a reformatory today. Chief Connoily and Officer J. B. Harris agreed to the settlement of the case on the part of the city and County Policeman Ozburn agreed to it for the county. Officers Ozburn and Harris were the arresting officers. ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

A Negro Woman Tries To Swallow Laudanum but Is Prevented.

Willie Brown, a young negro woman, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by swallowing the contents of a bottle of laudanum, but the dose was not sufficient to do much harm. The woman came to town from the east-ern portion of the city on a Consolidated electric car and when near the center of the city pulled out the bottle of poison from her dress and attempted to swellers the her dress and attempted to swallow the entire contents, but was prevented from doing so. The police were called and the negro wa carried to the Grady hospital, where she was given medical attention, the result being that she had almost entirely recovered last night and will probably be ased today.

The Raleigh Can Safely Enter. Washington, June 19.—The citizens of Fernandina, Fla., have protested to the treasury department against statements published in certain papers that the har-bor of that city is not sufficiently deep to permit the United States steamship Raleigh to enter it. The Scotch-Irish Meeting.

Lexington, Va., June 19.—The seventh nnual session of the Scotch-Irish of annual session America and Canada meets here tomorrow President Robert Bonner will preside. Al-ready the town is full of distinguished visitors and all incoming trains are bring-ing more. Governor O'Ferrall will make an address of welcome.

Miss Fannie Ponder, of Carrollton, Ga. and Mr. W. A. Cox, of Atlanta, were united in marriage at the residence of Mr. T. J. Ponder, 201 Foundry street, by Rev. H. B. Johnson yesterday afternoon. Miss Ponder is one of Carrollton's most popular young ladies and Mr. Cox is a well known member of the Atlanta police force, connected with the morning watch. The marriage was a quiet one, only a few friends of the happy couple being present. They will make their home at 201 Foundry street, the residence of Patrolman T. J. Ponder, a relative of Mrs. Cox.

A Philadelphia dispatch says that the iron Market has been steadily gaining in strength, although the prices named on certain mill products by some makers have not been realized. Demand is heavier and steadier for pig billets, bars, ptpes, tubes, merchant steelplates, shapes, steel rails, both standard sections and girders. The expansion in demand is moderate, for actual requirements, and mostly for immediate requirements, and mostly for immediate

Carriage and wagon builders, and agri-

Carriage and wagon builders, and agricultural implement and tool requirements are assuming large dimensions in western states. Coke is threatening an advance. Steel billets are unsettled at $20. Merchant bars were advanced $1 per ton. Steel sheets $4 per ton, plates and shapes $2 to $4 per ton on small, early delivery orders. Options to place orders within thirty days for 20,000 tons were accepted at current rates, but an advance on girders is imminent. Mills are readily filling up.

There is as yet no speculative demand. An increasing volume of iron and steel work is in sight this week. The only thing that checks a marking up of qeotations is the anxiety of manufacturers to load up with a few weeks' business and also the possibility of postponements on the part of buyers. This makes inquiries for steel rails foot up $0,000 tons. A stronger tone exists in all western iron centers. Western Pennsylvanian mills and furnaces and the Shenango and Mahoning valley mills are pretty well sold up for the next two months.

THE YUMURI BURNING. A Ward Line Steamer Arrives in Por

with Fire in Her Hold. Quarantine, Staten Island, June 19 .- The Ward line steamer Yumuri arrived from Mexico and Havana this evening with a raging fire in her forehold. Last night at 10 o'clock several of the crew detected a strong smell of smoke which soon was noticeable throughout the forward part of the steamer. The alarm was given and all of the crew were called to quarters. Investigation showed the fire to be raging in the Steam was turned into the compartments of the hold from which the smoke emerged and for a short time its headway was check-The steamer was forced ahead at as great speed as possible. There was but littie excitement among the passengers and crew when they arrived at Quarantine, and it was stated that no excitement existed at any time since the fire broke out.

The police boat Patrol, and the fire boat New Yorker appeared off the boarding station and accompanied the burning vessel to her dock. Superintendent Walsh said that the steamer would be docked at the feet of Wall street and hatches opened. The fire boats would endeavor to suppress the fire at the dock. Should they fail the fire at the dock. Should they fail the seacocks would be opened and the Yumuri be permitted to sink to the bottom. The hold where the fire exists contains hemp, pine apples, coffee and other cargoes,

HENRY BIER DYING. The New Orleans Perjurer Removed from the Parish Prison. New Orleans, La., June 19.—Henry Pier, the well-known capitalist who was con-vited of perjury and who has been confined in the parsh prison, is a very sick man. His attorneys appeared today before Juage Morse, of the criminal court, asking that their client be removed to his residence. A physician's certificate states that he is suffering from bronchial asthma, associated with chronic bronchitis, and that he could not receive proper medical attention in the parish prison. Yesterday he was very low and it was feared death might come at any Judge Morse granted the request and Mr. Bier was removed to his residence, where two special deputy sheriffs are on guard. Morse has not rendered a dec in the application for a new trial, argument on which was made two weeks ago. Sixty-five authorities were cited by Mr. Bier's attorneys in the argument, and on investigation it was found that those authorities refer the court to another authority of previous date, hence the delay in the decision of the matter.

LINCH TAKES POSSESSION. The Supreme Court Says There Was

Cause for Ousting Chase. Topeka, Kas., June 19.—The supreme court this morning offered its decision in the state penitentiary warden case, confirming the removal of S. W. Chase, and giving possession of the prison to J. B. Linch, the recent appointee of Governor Morrill. The decision, which was agreed to by all of the judges, does not touch upon the consti-tutionality of the law by which Chase was removed, but affirms the action of the governor in ordering an investigation Chase's official conduct by a legislative committee and declared the finding of the committee sufficient cause for removal. Chase will turn the prisoners over to his successor without further controversy.

DISGUSTS THE GOVERNOR.

The State Will Move for a Change of Venue. Columbia, S. C., June 19.—(Special.)—The administration is disgusted with the action of the grand jury of Charleston in re-fusing to find true bills against any of the persons charged with violating the dispen sary law. The governor announced today that the state will move tomorrow for a change of venue from Charleston Orangeburg in all other such cases. This will be the first time the state has availed itself of this right.

Roanoke, Va., May 2, 1895. Six years ago I went through a long spell of typhoid fever, which left my right leg very much swollen, and for two years it was subject to running sores from my knee down, and once of twice I had to keep my room for more than a month at a time. I heard of King's Royal Germetuer and resolved to give it a trial. I commenced to rub my leg and take it inwardly at the same time. After using six bottles I feit like a new creature and the sores and inflammation were all gone from my leg. Once or twice since I have feit an itching sensation coming, and after rubbing freely a few times with the Germetuer it was all gone. I am now behind a dress goods counter, standing from twelve to fourteen hours a day on my leg, and selling as many goods as any man in the house. I consider Germetuer one of the greatest medicines in the world. Very truly.

Truth About International Agree-The following, from the reply of the chan cellor of the exchequer of Great Britain to the leading bankers of London who had written in behalf of the Gold Standard Detense Association, explains itself:

TREASURY CHAMBERS.

My Dear Bertram Currie: I have re ceived with much satisfaction the address you have forwarded to me, which I recognized as bearing names among the most weighty which could be found to represent the judgment of the merchants and bankers of the city of London.

to that address on the part of Her Majesty's government the reply which you have a right to expect.

I concur entirely in the opinion expressed in your address, that the ex-perience of well nigh a century has currency is suited to the wants of this great commercial country, and that to depart from it would be disastrous to the trade and credit of the United Kingdom.

Continuity of national policy is haps any other question. You may rely upon it that Her Majesty's government will not depart from the course pursued by all the governments that have preceded them, and will give no countenance to any change in the fundamental principles of our monetary system; or in any discussion in which they may be called upon to take part will they admit any doubt as to their intention firmly to adhere to the single gold standard, which you justly regard as essential to our wellbeing as a commercial nation. I remain, yours faithfully, W. V. HARCOURT. faithfully, May 27, 1895.

What Is "Sound" Money?

Not one of the goldbug organs has ventured to answer The Constitution's questions about "sound" money. The organs in this section have adopted the phrase because they saw it used in some eastern newspapers. They do not employ it understandingly, but repeat it as a parrot does the words that are dinned into its ears.

Nevertheless, we propose to press our questions from time to time until the people see clearly the fraud and sham of the phrase. If there is any organ of Shylockism in this region or in this country that knows what the term "sound" money means, we respectfully ask him, her or it to answer the questions which we propose to ask. If we have sound money now, what sort of money did we have in 1892? What sort did we have in 1873? Does or does not the term "sound" money refer to the purchasing power of the dollar? If yes, does it refer to the highest or the lowest purchasing power of the dollar? If no, to what, then, does the term refer? Would the dollar still be "sound" if prices of commodities were to rise to the level of 1873? The organs will bear in mind that the gold dollar would buy not quite half the quantity of commodities in 1873 that it will buy in 1895. This means, of course, that we had in 1873 what the Shylocks now call a fifty-cent dollar. It means, too, that we had a fifty-cent dollar in 1880, and, as compared with the present purchasing power of the dollar, that we had a sixty-cent dollar in 1892. We call the attention of the organs to this singular fact-that although the dollar was tremendously depreciated in 1873 and as late as 1892, none of the Shylocks called attention to the fact. What was the matter with them? Were they sleeping over their precious in-

Nobody talked about the fifty-cent dollar in 1873, for nobody had ever heard of such an incongruity. The fifty-cent gold dollar was at a premium over the thirty-cent greenback dollar and it seemed to the banks and the Shylock class of that day to be the most precious thing that had ever been invented up to that hour. The entire Wall street gang were ready to sell their naked souls for it at any hour of the day; but we are now informed by that same gang and its agents that a dollar with the purchasing power of the gold dollar of 1873 would now be a fifty-cent dollar and place this country on a level with Mexico-though it is well known that the Mexican silver dollar will purchase a larger amount of commodities in the United States in 1895 than the American gold dollar would purchase in 1873. In view of these facts, which none of the organs can dispute without lying, the question, what is a "sound" dollar becomes of extreme importance. In 1873, seventy-five gold dollars would buy a bale of cotton. In 1895, when a part of the crop was still in the hands of the farmers, twenty-five gold dollars would buy a bale of cotton. In 1894 only twenty gold dollars would buy 500 pounds of cotton. But in 1873, when gold, the money of the bankers, would buy less than one-third as much, nobody called it unsound money. Why? Will the organs venture to tell us?

If "sound" money means the highest purchasing power of the dollar-and it can mean nothing else-it means that the Shylock class and its organs are doing all they can to keep down prices to their present profitless level. And that, in fact, is the end and aim of this whole goldbug campaign. The whole purpose of the money power-the element that hoards and handles all the gold in the world-is to make their money just as valuable as possible. "Sound" money is the money that is so scarce that it commands a constantly increasing quantity of the products of the labor of the people.

The agents and organs of Shylock tell us that the free coinage of silver would give the people a depreciated and a dishonest dollar. Depreciated as to what? Why, as to its purchasing power. The claim is made that if the dollar will purchase less of the products of the people's labor than it does now it would be a "dishonest" dollar. In other words, only an "honest" dollar and a "sound' currency can have the effect of depreciating the prices of commodities and of cutting down the profits of the peaple's labor. The theory is now boldly set forth that 121/2 cents a pound for cotton and $1 a bushel for wheat means a "dishonest" dollar and a "depreciated" currency. The people must submit to depreciated and dishonest prices for their products in order to give the monev power an opportunity to double the value of the money it has invested in bonds and other loans.

We do not think the people can deceive themselves or be deceived in this matter. What Shylock and his agents are trying to do is to hold prices at their present level. Otherwise there is no sense or logic in the cry for "sound" money. Gold prices mean low prices, and gold, or the gold parity, is the only "sound" money according to the goldbugs. Consequently, the gold dollar of 1873 was not a sound dollar. It was so cheap that a given quantity of commodities would purchase nearly three times as much of it as it can purchase of the present gold dollars. But the gold dollar of today, with its trebled purchasing power, is held up before the people as the only "sound" money. Now, the people will have to make up their minds to choose between the free and independent coinage of silver and he gold money that makes low prices and hard times. If they want low prices and hard times, all they have to do is to sit still and wait. The agents of Wall street and the money power will see that they get a continuation of these blessings. Shylock is as active as a gray spider in a fodder stack.

On the other hand, if the people want sound prices and honest profits, they will have to help along the free coinage movement and make it successful, for if that fails they will have no remedy whatever. They will have to do as the pauper population of Europe does-grin and bear it and wear old clothes.

Georgia Property Involved. Georgia property is involved in the contest over a will which is being waged in New York. It is the will of the late John W. Masury, who died a few days ago, leaving an estate estimated at $5,000,000. Under this will all of the property of the estate goes to Mr. Masury's widow and her two children, ignoring two grandsons who were his legally adopted their behalf and they allege that the paper offered for probate was secured by fraud and circumvention and undue influence of the second wife. Mr. Masury's second marriage was in the nature of a sensation. He was a very well-known citizen of Brooklyn and had made a fortune out of the manufacture of paints. While traveling in Ireland he met Miss Grace Gallagher, a beautiful young girl, brought her to this country, educated her and married her. Mr. Masury's interest in Georgia comes through his residence, during the winter time, for several years past, at Thomasville. He owned there one of the most beautiful places in Georgia, was president of a bank, and had invested heavily in business property. He was enthu-siastic in his love for Thomasville and was one of her best citizens.

Subsidized Ignorance.

It has been said of J. Sterling Morton, the agricultural secretary, that he has a spiketail mind, but it seems to be just as broad as the minds of any of the ignorant or subsidized gang that is advocating low prices and hard times under the specious cry of "sound" money.

The latest utterance of Morton on the money question is at par with all the statements that emanate from the selfish class which has subsidized newspapers and so-called statesmen. Morton says: When the silver miner and bullion owner shall have established by legislation government gristmills, which shall convert every fifty cents' worth of farmer's wheat into a dollar of flour, it will be time enough for the farmer to advocate laws which shall convert every fifty cents' worth of silver bullion into a dollar of coin. Here is ignorance of a kind that may be classed as vulgar. When the mints of the United States are open to the unlimited coinage of silver the dollar's worth of silver will be the amount of silver in a dollar-the amount that has been a dollar's worth whenever placed in a dollar since the foundation of the government. When this is done the purchasing power of the dollar, at the very lowest, will be not less than the pur chasing power of the gold in a gold dollar in 1873, when gold was at a premium over the paper dollar. It is inconceivable that the people will permit subsidized ignoramuses of the caliber of Morton to deceive them in re gard to this money question. What Shylock calls "sound" money is the money that is so scarce and dear that the people's property and the products of their labor are depreciated in contrast with it. It is the money that is so scarce that the people have to give constantly increasing quantities of their labor and the products of their labor in order to secure a given amount of it to pay their debts.

There is no reason, either, why the people should be deceived by the attitude of what is vaguely called the "business interests." It is well known that the "business interests" have been placed in such a condition by the fall in prices and the cutting down of legitimate profits, that they will gladly do the bidding of the banks in regard to the money question in order to secure further accommodations.

There has never been a time in the history of the country when the money power could not control the organiza tions and associations which flourish under the name of the "business interests," but which are really the merest fraction of the business interests. This class was rampantly in favor of the United States bank in Jackson's day, and in Georgia it was just as friendly on the side of the banks when Governor Joseph E. Brown brought these institutions to time in the matter of the resumption of specie payments in 1857-58. But if the people want to win in this contest-as they won in the others-they will have to take an active and an aggressive interest in the question.

Send Delegates. The people of Georgia should not forget that the Griffin convention is to meet on the 18th of July. It has been called for the purpose of giving the voters of the state an opportunity to express their views on the financial question in an authoritative way, and to issue instructions, as it were, to the various and sundry politicians who may be hanging around on the borders of the discussion waiting to see which way the cat will

At this convention every county in the state should be adequately represented by its best and most influential men. There is no reason why the free coinage men should take snap judgment on the money question, and there is still less reason why the people should rest in fancied security and permit the agents and organs of Shylock to perfect an organization that will be able to control the machinery of the democratic party and further weaken and disrupt it To prevent this, the people should begin to move at once, and a proper beginning of this movement will be to send representative men as delegates to the Griffin convention. If the people do not begin the campaign now and carry it on actively, they may be sure that their non-action will be counted as a victory for those who favor the British gold standard.

The Gold Egg.

It will not do for the railroads of the south to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

There is millions in the fruit business in this state if the infant industry receives proper encouragement from the transportation lines. It costs very little to raise fruit in Georgia, the climate and, surrounding circumstances are all that could be desired, and the outlook for a steady and rapid growth of the industry is very bright indeed. This year gives most abundant promise of fruit, and the result is that our farmers, as well as practical fruit growers and capitalists from other parts of the country, are going extensively into the business in Georgia. Under proper encouragement the fruit crop is a better crop than cotton. It costs much less in the cultivation and, the seasons considered, s even a surer investment than cotton.

From time to time The Constitution has urged upon the farmers that they go more extensively into the cultivation of peaches and other fruits, for we be that the facilities here are better than in any other part of the country. No section possessing a climate that makes early fruit a practical possibility is so near the markets, and the soil of Georgia is admirably adapted to the growing of all sorts of fruit. But unless the fruit growers receive fair treatment at the hands of the railroads. all of this work will have been in vain. We regret very much to see a tendency on the part of the men controlling the Southern Railway and Steamship Association to take action which means discouragement to the growers. They should take a broader view of the situation and should realize that to them the greatest good is that which will come after the industry has received its higher development. Whatever they can do in its incipient stage to foster the industry should certainly be done. All that the growers ask is the same sort of treatment which the railroads in other sections give the growers in their territory.

There is small profit in killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

We gather from Little Jiblets, the cuckoo that an announcement against voting for John Sherman for any office is an anti-democratic declaration. All the cuckoos and goldbugs are willing to support John

The cuckoos denounce Senator Stewart, who prevented the passage of the force bill in 1890, and praise John Sherman, who was urging the force bill. Shylockism makes strange bedfellows.

POLITICS IN GEORGIA.

Americus Times-Recorder: According to Mr. Sinclair Mr. Cleveland stated in a recent interview that he would not support the nominee of the party if the next democratic national convention adopted a plank favoring the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and a man is chosen to head the ticket who entertains views in line with that kind of a platform. The president added, however, that he did not believe that the leaders of the party would permit the populistic element to incorporate a free coinage plank in the platform for the simple reason that it would be repudiated by the country. The Times-Recorder doubts the authenticity of the interview, not because it is not a correct expression of Mr. Cleveland's purpose, but because he is too clever a politician to give his plan away, to control or disrupt the democratic party. He will bolt, no doubt, when the genuine bimetallic element of the democratic party is shown to be in control; but until the fight is won, the president and the goldbugs are likely to saw wood and say nothing.

LaGrange Graphic: Mr. Carlisie stated in his Memphis speech that he had never changed his opinion upon the silver question—that he had always been opposed to the free coinage of silver. Now a half truth is the worst kind of a falscheod and Mr. Carlisie did not tell the whole truth about his own position. In 1878 he was opposed not only to the free coinage of silver, but the free coinage of gold as well. He was in favor of the unlimited coinage of both gold and silver. Does this look like Mr. Carlisie wished to be fair with his hearers? Not only that, but Mr. Carlisie voted for "the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver." He neglected to state that in his Memphis speech. The Americus-Times Recorder asks this

The Eloquence of Patriotism.

Daughters of the Confederacy, Chapter A, Augusta.—Editor Constitution: Having seen in your paper the letter of an exunion soldier, inclosing a check for $5 for the purpose of caring for the graves of the confederate dead at Marietta, our hearts were deeply stirred, not only be-cause we would have their sacred resting places "covered all over with beautiful flowers" now and always, but because we would not have it appear to a casual reader that the graves of our heroes could ever suffer neglect at the hands of those who so proudly wore the sackcloth of confederate mourners. No, we have neither forgotton nor neglected them, but the living have required all of the poor pittance that it has been ours to give. Meager as has been our meed of daily bread, has there been one real confederate man or woman who has not willingly, eagerly shared it who has not willingly, eagerly shared it with any one who appealed in the name of the lost cause? Could we do the dead greater reverence than this? Have we not taught our children that there was no glory so great, no honor so high as that which was attained by those men of the south? When they have won back by hard labor what their fathers gave with lavish hands to the cause they will need no urging to adorn and beautify the graves no urging to adorn and beautify the graves where valor sleeps. The wives and mothers leave this bequest to their children, in the full confidence that when wealth comes to the empty coffers of the south, they will surely bestow what is necessary to preserve throughout this sun-kissed land the golden virtues of its truest sons. to preserve throughout this sun-kissed land

THE CONSTITUTION'S POETS.

The Ball. A queer fancy ball
In a vision by chance,
Where a lone fiddler sat,
Leading on a wild dance. Aloft on an hourglass Showed Father Time old

Had abandoned his reaping

To assume a new role.

The tune that he played Held a magical sway Over all the vast throng
As he fiddled away;
That each dancer should feel The effect of his strain, Unlike all the rest, His purpose was plain.

From darkness to darkness They entered and passed Through the light of the present, The press crowding fast On the heels of the vanished. And ne'er an old face The light had once shown on Again could be traced.

The soft eyes of many, With purest love lighted, And hands clasped in hands Revealed true souls united, While other hands stretched With heart yearnings denied By the sister musician, Who thrust them aside.

And many wore marks With diabolical grin, While the eyes of fierce hate Glared cruel within. Of black sin besmirched 'Neath white veils of purity Gibbered and lurched.

Some, lurid with passion Of hell's hottest flare, Over fairest forms gloated With sensuous glare; Thrust filth-reeking hands Into Purity's breast, Drained Chastity's fount With mad, drunken zest

Same wept in their sorrow, Some shrieked in their pain, Some gabbled in madness The musician, who ever Plied fiddle and boy With unflagging zeal And stern measured flow.

But the fiddler paused not-On, on, with the dance! For the tune that he played Was the wild air of Chance And the dancers who swayed Through that measured strife Were but women and men In the round dance of life.

Connecticut touched Georgia yesterday. Three chosen sons of the Nutmeg State came down to the southland on a mission of special import.

They were welcomed in the morning by President Collier and the exposition officials, who took them immediately in charge and gave them a slight idea of what Atlanta and the south had started out to accom-

These gentlemen, Messrs. Frank B. Weeks, John S. Jones and J. H. Vaill, are representatives of the board of commissioners appointed by the governor of their state to look out for the manufacturing interests of Connecticut, during the Cotton States and International exposition. They arrived in this city late Tuesday night and as soon as the offices opened visited headquarters yesterday. Mr. Wecks, who is himself largely interested in manufacturing industries, is president of the commission, Mr. Jones is secretary and Mr. Vaill, who was the executice commissioner of his state during the Chicago fair, is executive secretary of the present board.

These men were appointed last Saturday by Governor Coffin and left immediately for this city. As soon as it became known that they were here carriages were procured and were driven to the exposition grounds. Al! of the buildings were 'nspected and the plans for the great fair outlined. All of the ommissioners were interested, pleased and

The Secretary Pleased.

Secretary Vaill is a man of unusual interest. He comes from Winstead, which is a manufacturing center. For twenty-five years he has been in the newspaper business and he is a man of lively energy and wide awake activity.

"It was just last Saturday that we received the notices from the governor," said Mr. Vaill, "that we were appointed commissioners to look out for our state during your exposition. We recognized immediately the necessity of acting at once, and left as soon as possible. I left Winstead Monday morning, and joining the others on the way, came in time to get to the grounds this morning.

"Our state is interested in your work down here. We are determined to do what we can to make a representative display of industries, for that is our chief pride "I am wonderfully struck with the progressive spirit I see down here. Atlanta has the yankee push in her. She has some of the activity of the Nutmeg State.

"To give you an instance of that yankee spirit 1 speak of," continued Mr. Vaill, "there was a long-headed fellow in my town who took an idea to sell wooden nutmegs as souvenirs during the meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic there. He laid in a large supply and sold then out at 10 oents apiece. The people wanted those wooden nutriegs. They called for them from every direction. The supply of the yankee genius gave out, but he was not to be eu chred, so he went to the grocery stores and bought up all the real nutmegs and sold them out for the same price. I heard an old veteran say that he never saw such a real looking woden nutmegs.

'Now that is the inventive spirit we have up home. But speaking of the exposition here I don't think I ever saw such beautiful grounds. You know there was no contour in Chicago. There was not a foot of raised dirt but what was artificial. Here you have the most picturesque effect I ever saw. Then the arrangement of the different buildings is another feature I like. But this is an old theme with the Atlanta people, I suppose. They know they have a good thing.

"It is our purpose to go home, take our coats off and go to work, for we realize what a vast opportunity there is here and we intend to take advantage of it. shall make efforts to bring in large exhibits if there is room for them, and I understand that there will be. We intend to occupy the annex to the manufactures hall. This is a great enterprise and Atlanta is a great city."

The Connecticut commissioners will depart this morning.

Honduras Heard From.

Honduras has been heard from. A communication was received yesterday morning by President Collier, stating that an exhibit would be sent on and a commissioner appointed. This letter was signed by President Poly-carpo Bonilla, who said that he had re-ceived the letter addressed to him by the exposition company, dated March 18th, and he would do all he could to promote the ork in his domain.

"No building," he said, "will be erected to show up the products of this country and those to be sent, according to your in-dications, will be placed in the special building erected by the company for that purpose. The minister of foreign affairs will collect and transmit the articles for exhibi-tion and appoint a commissioner to represent Honduras in your great exhibition of the progress of mankind."

Russia's Recognition.

Yesterday morning a communication was received from the ambassador at St. Petersburg, stating to President Collier that the czar had taken official recognition of the Cotton States and International exposition and had ordered that all papers give notice of the great American enterprise.

Other communications from foreign quarters were scattered over the desk of Mr.

Edward A. Felder yesterday afternoon.
"The world is looking our way," said
Mr. Felder, "and it'll soon be ours, too." From Malay peninsula came word yes-terday from United States Consul D. Spencer Pratt, who stated that he was active in his work for the exposition. He wanted as many prospectuses as could be sent him in order to advertise. He assured a ALABAMA'S WORK.

Plans for the Building of Our Sister State at the Exposition.

SHE HAS GONE TO WORK IN EARNEST

Plans for the Building and Outlines for the Work Which Will Be Done by Alabama Giver.

In a few days work will begin at the exposition grounds on the Alabama building. Dirt has already been broken and in a short while will rise one of the most at tractive structures on the whole grounds. Luckily at this late hour for location, Alabama has secured a position conspicuous and desirable. The site selected several days ago by Mr. Grant Wilkins is just to the east of the Plant building and not very far from the government building. The plans for the building have been prepared.

The building proper will be octagonal in shape, eighty feet in diameter, with two rings, one at each end, and each thirty-two by thirty-two feet in length and width This gives a frontage of 144 feet, with a depth from the main entrance of 100 feet.

The inside height of the dome is fifty feet and the outside height sixty-five feet. The main entrance, which ronts the grounds, is twelve feet in width back to main hall, thirty-four feet. Along this cor-ridor on the right are the exposition of-fices, with waiting room and toilets, while on the left are a ladies' parlor and dressing room. Over the main entrance will be pri room. Over the main entrance will be private offices for the board of managers and residents in charge of the exhibits.

There will be a gallery twenty feet in width around the main building inside, with entrances from the right and left of the main entrance. This gallery contains an area of 3,500 square feet for exhibition space, while the main hall below including. space, while the main hall below, including wings, will have an area of 7,500 square feet, glving a total of 11,000 square feet giving a total of 11,000 square feet for exhibition. The side entrances will be at the end of each wing, giving a passage way through the entire length of the building. The exterior finish will be roman-esque, well lighted and ventilated, yet ad-mirably adapted for comfort in any kind of weather.

Alabama has gone to work in earnest to place one of the most telling displays. In getting funds for her building she has had difficulties to surmount, but these she has breasted bravely.

It will be borne in mind that the governor recommended an appropriation by the state for a state builing and exhibit, and also that the leading commercial bodies of the state sent delegations to Montgomery to try to secure from the legislature this apprepriation, but there was a strong cur-rent of sentimerat that was manipulated on the line of economy and the state's finances were not in such shape as could overcome this sentiment and the appropriation failed. Immediately the Commercial Club, of Birmingham, called a meeting of the Alabama Commercial Association, composed of the commercial bodies of the state, as well as members from the leading papers of the state, to consider this matter, and while the action of the legislature unquestionably hurt the possibilities of such a scheme proving successful, still the matter was pushed vigorously and a large attendance on the meeting of the Alabama Commercial Assoclation was had at Birmingham on April 2d, and that meeting underfook the work of having Alabama fittingly represented at the Atlanta exposition, by electing the following as a board or managers. F. J. Al-derson, Birmingham; M. B. Houghton, Montgomery; A. C. Danner, Mobile; Hon, Hector D. Lane, Athens, and T. W. Pratt, Huntsville, Mr. Houghton declined on account of illness in his family, and Mr. H. C. Davídson, of Montgomery, was selected In his stead. The board organized April 17th by the election of F. Y. Anderson as chairman and N. F. Thorpe as secretary. Then the real work of the board began, which was the collection of the fund, arranging for rates and procuring necessary material for the exhibits; but all difficul-ties have been about overcome and the board has at last definitely decided that it is justified in going ahead with the

In this connection it is due the enterprise and whatver results may come from it, to give credit for its progress to its present shape largely to the personal work of the secretary of the Commercial Club of Bir-mingham, who is also secretary and treas-urer of the Alabama Commercial Associa-urer of the Alabama Commercial Association and secretary of the Alabama board of managers—Mr. N. F. Thömpson, of whom a sketch is herewith presented.

Mr. Thompton, from the start, has been an untiring worker for the enterprise, and but for his determination to overcome all obstacles the enterprise would have unquestionably been abandoned. While the board is composed of the leading business men of the state, still the details necessary to make the affair a success devolved on the secretary. It has taken a world of correspondence to get the matter straightened out, but everything seems now to be working smoothly.

As to the Exhibits.

As to the Exhibits.

"Without Alabama," sald one of the coard who was in Atlanta the other day, "visitors to the exposition would have had "visitors to the exposition would have had but a partial idea of the wonderful resources of the south. Alabama claims a greater variety of attractions for homeseckers, investors or industrial developers than any other state, not only in the south, but in all the land. In fact, it is the object of the board to present an exhibit that will show Alabama's resources without a counterpart in any state.

BAPTISTS IN SESSION.

The Question of Reaching the Masses Is Being Discussed. The problem of reaching the masses is one that is agitating the Baptist church of the south.

How to save the multitudes has become the question of the hour.

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the Southern Baptist convention, in Washington, to unravel this problem met. pursuant to the call, in the Second Baptist church yesterday morning. Among those present were the following:

Revs. D. F. Gregory, D. D., of Maryland; J. B. Gambrell, D. D., of Georgia; Charles Manly, D. D., of South Carolina; J. G. Gibson, D. D., of Georgia; J. M. Frost, D. D., of Tennessee; T. M. Bailey, D. D. D. D., of Tennessee; T. M. Bailey, D. D., of South Carolina; A. J. Holt, D. D., of Tennessee; W. B. Crompton, D. D., of Alabama; J. W. Warder, D. D., of Kentucky; William Ellerson, D. D., of Virginia; A. V. Rowe, D. D., of Mississippi; E. O. Ware, D. D., of Louisiana, and M. D. Early, D. D., of Texas.

Dr. J. B. Gambrell, president of Mercer.

Dr. J. B. Gambrell, president of Mercer university, was made chairman, and Dr. D. F. Gregory, of Baitimore, was made secretary.

Quite a number of speeches were made along the line of reaching the masses, and interesting figures were submitted showing that the work among the unconverted was too small in comparison with the size of the field to be covered. Two meetings were held by the committee yesterday—one in the morning and one in the afternoon. They are seeking light on this vital question, and their deliberations will be thoughtful, earnest and prayer-seeking. The committee will meet again this morning.

man Wildauer, and was fined $3.75 for the offense by Acting Recorder Hirsch.

Bowan is said to be one of the men who interfered with Patrolman Wildauer when he had under arrest Emmet Finney, who had a fight on the train returning from the German Lutheran picnic last week. It will be remembered that Finney at-tempted to escape from Officer Wildauer when the train reached Simpson street, but was caught by the officer, the result being a small riot on that street, during which Finney was released from the officer's grasp by some friend.

Finney and Will Ozborn were fined $25.78 each in the police court the next day, but they took an appeal from the decision of the court, announcing that they would carry the case to a higher court, but they reconsidered the matter and paid the fines yesterday.

Bocial Events and Matters Pertaining Thereto.

The ladies of the exposition are actively it work these days doing all they can to aid the work of raising the necessary amount of money to complete their building, and they are receiving the hearty support of their friends. This week the game of base-ball at Athletic park and the opening of the roof garden of the Aragon have made material additions to their funds and there are two other features underlined which are sure to give material aid. One of these is the turning over to them by Mrs. Warner, proprietor of the None-such lunch room, of the receipts of that popular place today. The Nonesuch, which is located on the top floor of the Norcross building, at the corner of Marietta and Peachtree, is a most attractive place and enjoys a large patronage. Today the ladies of the exposition are to receive the gross-receipts from the patronage of the Nonereceipts from the patronage of the None-such. The menu will be more laborate than ever but there will be no advance in prices whatever and there are no schemes to sell anything other than merely the lunch which each person orders by the card. The expo-sition ladies will not have anything to do with the operating of the room at all, but doubtless a number of them will get their luncheon there today. The rooms will be run with the usual force and in the usual manner. All there is in it is this: That if you get your lunch down town, by going to the Nonesuch today you can get it as cheaply as anywhere else and can be aiding the exposition fund at the same time. Another attraction for the near future is the benefit to be given at the Grand by Verno, the wonderful painter. This man is said to be a marvel. He paints with both hands at a time, he paints with both feet and performs a number of marvelous acts with his brush. His is a decidedly unique entertainment and will doubtless prove a most attractive one.

BIG GUNS IN CAMP.

The Heavy Artillery Awakes the Echoes at Camp Northen.

THE SOLDIERS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

Much Good Work Is Being Accomplished and All the Men Are Making Them-selves Proficient in the Use of Guns.

Griffin, Ga., June 19 .- (Special.)-This is the second day the First regiment and the artillerymen have spent in camp and the boys are getting down to hard work. The orders of the day, as issued by Colonel Mercer, have been strictly adhered to, and everything has moved along in a most orderly manner.

The entire camp has been solicitous in regard to the condition of Governor Atkinson, and has eagerly sought for information about his illness. There has been perceptible gloom cast over the camp and all the soldiers are anxious. Many inquiries have been made Aver the telephone and the bulletins issued by the local pa-pers have been carefully watched.

The day was warm and the detail work was fatiging. No one, however, and to be taken off the field on account of the excessive heat. The Kell Rifles were on guard today, and

The Rell Rell ware on gain doday, and the officers of that company were the officers of the day.

The rifle range was occupied today by the Savannah Cadets, and some good scores were made. The Cadets handled the guns like veterans, and did some fine work.

The dress parade this afternoon was an imposing scene, and all the men in the camp, with the exception of the Kell Rifles, who were on guard duty, were in line. They made a good appearance, and their movements elicited much applause their movements elicited much appliates from the large crowd hat was cit.

As the review was concluded and the parade was dismissed, the Atlanta Artillery fired the evening gun, and the flag was lowered. The troops are making a good in-pression upon the people. The encampment will be more interesting this week than last, for the reason that the heavy artillery is here. The firing of the big guns is a special feature or the daily work, and many go out to see the standing gun drill. This drill consists of actual firing, and the artillerymen handle the heavy pieces in a masterly manner.

The Chatham Artillery did not bring its guns and there seems to have been a general misunderstanding.

-Lieutenant Walker is greatly disappointed over the fact and says that the guas should have been brought by all means. "It was this way," said he this morning.
"We could not bring the guns unless we had an order to that effect from Adjutant General Kell. We wrote him on June 11th and asked him to issue us the orders that would allow us to bring the pieces. We heard nothing from him and in a few days we followed the letter with a telegram asking that he give his immediate attea-tion to the letter, as our time was limited. In a few days we wired him again, and heard nothing at all. Our letter was ne answered, and we left Savannah without the guns. Of course, we will not get the benefit from the week's camp that we should have received for the simple reason that we have no guns with which to drill. An artilleryman has nothing to do unless he has the field pieces, and we are at a loss to know how we can pass away the time. The failure to have the guns here is certainly a great disappointment to the Colonel Mercer Talks.

Colonel Mercer, the post commandant, is not very well. He is suffering from the effects of a recent attack of the grip. He is enthusiastic in the work, and hopes that all past records will be broken and more benefit received from this encampment than at any previous one.

"I am well pleased with the progress that we have made so far and I am sure that we will derive much benefit from the week's stay. I am glad to see that the young men are orderly and civil and the week's stay. I am glad to see that the young men are orderly and civil and can say that they are all striving to get the greatest good out of the encampment. "I have issued some very strict orders and the young men have signified their willingness in carrying them out to the letter. I am sure that we will derive a great deal of benefit. Lieutenant Satterlee has accomplished a great work for the state soldiery, and it is due to him that I say no man has done more to advance their interests than he. I am very sorry that we are to lose his services, and hope that his work will continue to be felt. "Governor Atkinson is a good friend of about him. It would be a severe blow to the state if he were to dle, and I am sure that it would be a very difficult matter to fill his place."

A Few Incongruous Notes About the Imperial City of the Empire State.

From The New York Sun.
Atlanta, June 10.—"Atlanta, Georgia," that's what they call it down here, now, but they won't after awhile, any more than New Yorkers refer to their town as "New York, N. Y." However, as there are eighteen other Atlantas in the United States, and only one New York, besides the New York, this may account for the difference of

In any event, the wed a guiated Atlantion, the to-the-manner-oorn Atlantian, thinks there is but one Atlanta on earth, and he unconsciously and disingenuously refers to New York as the Atlanta of the

He also says things unfit for publication when Atlanta is referred to as the Chicago of the south. For him Atlanta is Atlanta,

A native Georgian, or rather a rural Georgian, is known as a "cracker;" when he moves into Atlanta he becomes a whole

Atlanta is the imperial city of the Empire State of the South. It is also the cycloraina city, but only when Captain Evan Howell, of that stalwart journal, The Constitution, rises to the roof of his noble building, and, in the graphic manner of his well-known In the graphic manner of his well-known editorials, tells of the tremendous fighting that took place all over the broad expanse of hill and valley and far away to the distant Kennesaw, when the blue and gray contended for the mastery, ere Sherman marched from Atlanta to the sea.

The republican vote of the city is seldon, counted. It is so small that they know how much it is without counting.

Stone mountain, eighteen miles from Atlanta, has enough granite in it to lay a pavement around the world in forty minutes.

The state capitol, an architectural delight in sawed stone, cost $399,965. The appropriation was for $1,900,099, with an amendment to the bill to the effect toat it would be a penal offense to have it cost any more. vankees wonder wa

I asked a prominent citizen how many churches there were in town, and he couldn't tell me. Then I asked how many saloons there were, and he promptly told me there were fifty-eight. He afterward told me, somewhat apologetically, I thought, that he knew the number of salcons because he was a leader in the temperance work and it was his business to know such things. All Atlanta saloons close promptly at 10 o'clock p. m. and open as promptly at 5 o'clock in the morning. I was reliably informed that those were the seven longest hours in the entire twenty-four.

From the above statistics visitors to the

From the above statistics visitors to the imperial city may learn why there are so many early risers in Atlanta.

This is really a beautiful street, and the residences along its entire continuation of

A Washington correspondent said to me in cc.f.dence: "Just think what it would be for a fellow to live at 666 Peachtree street, and under certain circumstances be com-pelled to tell a policeman at 2 a. m. where his home was.

The reader will get on to the enormity of this suggestion by getting into the proper condition and trying to say "606 Peachtree street" three times in a rapid tone of Atlanta had a population of 7,000 when the war closed, but it had only 200 houses standing after the siege was over.

Atlanta is over 1,000 feet above sea level, and this elevation gives her a climate which though not fresty fills the day with ozone and energy and the nights with sleep and pleasant dreams.

There is one business building costing $1,100,000, which has an office population of Quite a village, and, as well, quite a building, even for Atlanta.

One distinguished citizen owns 600 acres which he refuses $1.009 an acre for. He is thus formulating a rich fruitful snap for his heirs. Would that all parents would do as well by their offspring. There are sixty-seven miles of trolley lines, warranted never to kill a kid. Brook-lyn trolley lines please copy. Some of these trolleys, going through the suburbs, run at the rate of sixty-seven miles an hour. Anyhow that's what a passenger thinks as he scoots down the toboggan into some sweet and quiet valley from a hillton with a view from it that would have given Moses cards and spades on Pisgah's lofty

At present Atlanta is the best point for eal estate investment in the United States. I make this statement on my own authority and with tears in my eyes because I have not a barrel of ducats to buy dirt with. The "Bachelor's Domain" is one of the oddittes of the city. It is a four-story build-ing, not yet finished, which is to be a lodg-ing house for bachelors exclusively. It con-tains forty-four rooms, and any woman seen tains forty-four rooms, and any woman seen in its vicinity will be shot on the spot. It is in the center of a square and the only ap-proach to it is by an alley. A great many of the apartments are already engaged, and this, I may say is the only ungamantry know of on the part of an Atlanta man The builder of the Domain, to preserve the harmony of the design, ought to be a bach-elor, but he isn't.

For crookedness, the streets of Atlanta are a cross between the streets of Boston and a dog's hind leg. In others respects, intel-lectual as well as topographical, Atlanta reminds the wayfarer of Boston. however, draws the line on beans as the only Sunday breakfact.

Atlantians eat one million watermelons each season. That is about ten per capita, although the statistics will show that the colored brother's per capita is about as ten

There are several millionaires in town. and they have made most of their money right here. An Atlanta millionaire is such a good, all round fellow that an anarchist would almost work to help him make more. The Capital City Club is the mold of fashion and the glass of form, the observed of all observers. It is the social center, and when Atlanta's beauty and chivalry are gathered, there isn't anything prettier in forty-four states.

Because-and here let me get a good start -Atlanta's lovely women mingle in the giddy throng, and Atlanta has more good-looking women of her own producing than any other town anywhere. It isn't that one woman is prettier than any other woman, but that all are so pretty. Not pretty, either, but handsome-real dewright handsom. Good, substantial, enduring women-women as hendsone as grandmothers as they are as matrons, and as handsome as matrons as they are as maids. And they don't, as a rule, go away from home to marry, or mar-ry and go away from home. Said one en-thesiastic man to me: "Our women are our pride, and they are our leading attraction. When they marry, the men they marry must come to Atlanta to live, and thus we get a good citizen, establish another happy home and make our city blossom

And it does blossom, too, for there are grandmothers in Atlanta not yet forty years old.

The opera house is a thing of beauty and it has a lobby lined with polished Georgia marble that is as brilliant as a basketful of Lillian Russell's diamonds. This is somewhat in the nature of a free ad for Miss Russell, but she probably will not object. The women of Atianta never wear their hats in the theater. They are so pretty they don't want to hide any of it. Only homely women wear hats in the theater. This is authentic.

They make a beer in Atlanta which is as good as champane—and some better, to pay for. The excellence may be due to the fact that the brewster learned his business n New York.

Two of the best and biggest hotels in the south, the Aragon and the Kimbail, are in Atlanta. The top of the Aragon is 1,200 Attains. The top of the Aragon is 1,200 feet above the sea and there is a roof garden there with a view from it as wide as Georgia. In reply to a question concerning the national game, I was told that there were only two men in Atlanta who could play poker! And I readily believed it, for I had seen some of those Atlantians while quantity of selected expert stock on hand.
Atlanta has three newspapers, The Constitution (morning) and The Journal and Commercial (evening), and they fill the field full. Of course, each paper is provided with a pneumatic circulation editor, who is prepared at any time to swear that his journal has a larger circulation than all the others combined. Atlanta editors are not to be outdone by their contemporaries but their actions were most significant the others combined. Atlanta editors are not to be outdone by their contemporaries of New York or any other place.

A mint julep is constructed at almost any polit in Atlanta; notably at the Capital City Club, in comparison with which the well-known Olympian nectar of the gods is the veriest slop. When the perspiring mortal buries his nose in the gracious green of the mint surmounting one of those luxurious. Ibstions and feels the Limpid liquid go gurgling down his throat he shuts his eyes upon the world-and dreams of delights beyond the power of poet's pen or painter's brush to depict. That is why I don't write a poem to the Atlanta mint julep.

Hutch entered the bank with drawn guns, but their actions were most significant and extremely hostile. They, however, were so quickly covered from all sides by officers with guns that they capitulated without firing a shot and any attempt to escape on their part would have resulted in being shot.

Kennedy was stationed outside to sound any danger warning, while McFarland was in charge of a fast team of horses and a light wagon near the side entrance of the bank, in which the robbers intended to escape after securing the booty.

Of course, under such circumstances Atlanta put her best foot forward; but the was easy to do for Atlanta? but this was easy to do, for Atlantans but this was easy to do, for Atlantans are posted on that sort of thing, the city having averaged one convention a day for the past six months in her midst, and her midst is still in prime condition, ready for as many more as may come, including a million or two who are bound to come to the exposition, or be filled with remorse, regret and disappointment ever after. This exposition will be the greatest the south has yet exposed, and it will stand next to the only world's fair, held in an obscure western town some years ago. It south has yet exposed, and it will stand next to the only world's fair, held in an obscure western town some years ago. It occupies a tract of nearly 200 acres, and with its twelve main buildings and its numerous smaller ones, with lakes and laggoons, drives and promenades, and ten thousand and one other attractions of importance and ten times that many less important, it cannot help being an object of pride to the entire south, as it now is of Atlanta. The government will have a great space well filled, all the southern states will be there with many of the northern ones, and the South and Central American republics will turn out in force. The best evidence of the success of the exposition is the energy and activity of the Atlanta people. Every man is working heart and soul for it, with President Collier in the van, and the women—well, spel their name with a capital W. They are doing their work with true southern woman enthusiasm and singleness of devotion, and that meins the superiative degree always. Mrs. Joseph Thompson is at the head of the woman's (not "ladies," they don't like a beautiful city first rank among southern cites. In union is strength, and they are united in every undertaking which will benefit their town. Every since the war cloud passed away Atlanta many well have borne the title of the City of Unceasing Endeavor. The great show will open in a slaze of glory on the lish of Septimber and continue to the close of the year. Atlanta is the capital of the New South and the spirit of Henry Grady is over it all. A little more than fifty years ago there wasn't any Atlanta. It was Terminus, so called because it was that part of a railroad. Then it received the name of Marthasville ("Marthayville," in the vernacular) and one day J. Edgar Thompson, the well-known Pennsylvanian, who was at that time civil engineering down there, suggested that Atlanta was a better name on the spot.

The

The secretary of the interior lives in At lanta. This is in the nature of a great boon to the city. Over the door of his law office of other divs, now cobwebby and dusty, I found this simple sign on the four panes of the transom:

HOKE SMITH

Then I looked around for Dink Botts, but Dink was out electioneering for silver. Atlanta needs a new railroad station and she is going to have it, for whatever she needs she has, and has it p. d. q. But they don't call it "stat'on" yet. "Depot" seems to be good enough for the present, but they will grow out of that also.

The shade tree seems to be indigenous to the soil of Atlanta and it even flourishes in the business parts of town, or very near thereto.

The sidewalks are too narrow for comfort, but marrow sidewalks give the impression of crowded streets, and crowded streets mean rushing business, and that's what Atlanta is after. Atlanta men don't dress as well as New Yorkers, but they have a deal more snaviter in modo. Atlanta women dress in much better taste than the average southern woman, indulging in much less of the tropical luxuriance of color and furbelow which characterizes the southern feminine attree in too many localities. And the drug store complexion is almost unknown.

Atlanta is the best town in the south, present and future, and ten years from now she will have a population of 200,000, net. She hasn't everything on earth in the way of natural resources, but she has what is more valuable than that, to-wit, the wisdom to see what is the best thing to do, and the spirit and energy to do it, and to do it at once. She doesn't wait for other people to come along and develop her resources and reap the advantages, but she buckles right to herself, and the result is—well, it is Atlanta, the Imperial City of the Empire State of the South, the City of Uncersing Endeavor, the City of Get There, the City of Atlanta.

In conclusion, I shall venture this prediction in peetry, it not being necessary to the success of poetry that it be sworn to:

Queen of the montain and plain,

Queen of the montain and plain, Fixed on her emerald throne, Swinging her scepter of gain, Claiming the earth as her own.

Queen of a wonderful time, Of a newer and higher birth, Possessed of a courage sublime, Atianta will yet own the earth, W. J. LAMPTON.

BANK ROBBERS HELD UP.

The Officers Were Waiting for Them and They Are Now Behind the Bars. Colorado Springs, Col., June 19.-A daring attempt to rob the Exchange National bank, and which was doomed to failure almost from its inception, occurred at 12:45 o'clock today, and as a result four men are now under lock and key, three of them with long terms at Canon City in view.

The hold-up scheme was hatched about a week ago by Fred George, Ed Hutch Mike Kennedy and Robert McFarland, and it was originally intended that the raid should take place last Monday, but for a signal service Farmer Futha count to the weather from such a coign of vantage! And what a place for Teddy Roosevel to roost at night and watch his policemen as they poked around the alleys far below, don't you know.

In reply to a question concerning the national game, I was told that there were only two men in Atlanta who could play poker! And I readily believed it, for I had seen some of those Atlantians while visiting Washington try a hand. Still that is hardly a fair test, especially when congress is in session and we have a large quantity of selected expert stock on hand. Atlanta has three newspapers, The Constitution (morning) and The Journal and cealed in the bank were Shejiff Frank abstract at large quantity of selected expert stock on band.

George did not say a word as he and Hutch entered the bank with drawn guns, but their actions were most significant and extremely hostile. They, however, were so quickly covered from all sides by officers with guns that they capitulated without firing a shot and any attempt to escape on their part would have resulted in helps shot.

The Secret of Contentment

The most contented people are those who abide by the old and tried, the old is so satisfactory that the new cannot offer any inducement for a change. Now that is just why Simmons Liver Regulator has maintained its popularity these many years, notwithstanding the many imitations and unscrupulous dealers who have done everything possible to draw the people away from Simmons Liver Regulator, The people of the south have too much good sense to turn away from an old friend, especially when the old friend is so far superior to everything that is new. To take Simmons Liver Regulator means long life and a happy life. But 'twill be a short life and a miserable one to any who allow themselves to be persuaded by dishonest dealers to take any of the initations or counterfeits. Stick to the old friend with the red Z on the package, the real simon pure article.

New York, June 19 .- Stocks were irregular again today, and the transactions were (1) a smaller scale, footing up 235,097 shares, against 282,000 yesterday. In today's total Sugar figured for nearly 57,000 shares, and the stock was the most conspicuous figure of the trading. The price advanced to and closed at 1134, a gain of 154 per cent on the day. A firm said to enjoy the confidence of insiders was the heaviest buyer, and it was reported in trade circles that the company was a large helder of raw sugars. In view was a large holder of raw sugars. In view of the troubles in Cuba this was considered an important point by the bulls in the stock, who were predicting still higher fistres. Linseed Oil was in better demand than of late, and rose 13s to 354s. Realiza-tions, however, carried the price back to Chicago Gas, Tobacco and General Elec tric were quiet. Distilling first fell to 18% and then rose to 19% and left off at 18%. The railway list was inclined to weakness a times, the strength of the sterling exchange market and London selling of St. Paul and Louisville and Nashville having induced the professional traders to sell for a turn. These operators made but little impression on prices, as they are unable to force out long There were a few strong feature to the railway list, notably Lake Shore, Misscuri Pacific, Reading, Wheeling and Lake Erie and New England. Lake Shore sold up to 14994; Missouri Pacific to 3314, Reading to 18, Wheeling and Lake Erie to 1434 and New England to 4514. Lake Shore advanced on investment buying and Missouri Pac on the improved prospects of the com-ny because of the proposed funding of floating debt. Reading's firmness was due in a measure to an impression that on the return of J. Pierpont Morgan meas-ures will be taken to re-establish the anthracite coal trade on a paying basis. Specilation closed about steady in tone. Net changes for the day show losses of 46% per cent in the usually active list. Sugar, Jersey Central, Manhattan and Reading, however, gained 4401 per cent. Financial Gossip.

From The New York Stockholder.
The greater activity and strength predicted for low price stocks are gradually developing, while the dividend payers, which have led the advance, are contending against the disposition to realize on them, though but few show weakness. In the high-priced stocks profits should be taken; on concessions low-priced solvent ones should be bought.

The Grangers have had as much rise as they are entitled to on conditions, and ought to recede some. So should Sugar, even if, later and from a somewhat lower point, its advance shall be renewed. Soivent stocks selling between 10 and 35 which will be advanced from time to time and which are therefore a purchase on concessions follow:

be advanced from time to time and which are therefore a purchase on concessions follow:

Missouri Pacific, Southern railway, common and preferred, Wabash preferred, Texas and Facific, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, Minneapolis and St. Louis preferred, Hocking Valley, Lake Erie, and Western common, the Southwestern stocks and Kansas and Texas preferred, all of which are doing well as to present earnings, or have a good business ahead.

On the stock exchange the week opened with the speculative undertone strong and sentiment confident. The favorable features were good crop advices, encouraging trade reports, the strength of bonds and easy money. The unfavorable and uninfluential ones were continued though moderate foreign selling of intermational stocks and a consequent higher level for sterling exchange.

The latter feels now the increasing effect. fluential ones were continuously stocks crafte foreign selling of international stocks and a consequent higher level for sterling exchange.

The latter feels now the increasing effect.

erale foreign selling of international stocks and a consequent higher level for sterling exchange.

The latter feels now the increasing effected the latter feels now, it also reflects the pletchora of money, the light exports of products and the resultant scarcity both of security and commercial bills. The syndicate bankers continue to supply the bulk of the demand and are expected to prevent gold exports till their contract with the government expires.

Transactions at the stock exchange footed up 301,000 shares, in which the industrials were less prominent, a good feature, than for some time. It was a market of specialities and low-priced stocks which reflected increasing activity at advancing prices. Missouri Pacific gained 3 points, Kansas and Texas preferred 2 on 21,000 and 12,000 shares respectively, while in both cases better rates and earnings ad improving crop prospects were the basis for the buying. Tennessee Coal and Iron, on a further advance of 50c a ton in its products, rose 22—24,000 shares—and Wabash preferred. Southern railway preferred, Texas and Pacific and Wheeling and Lake Erie were in good denand and closed with fractional net gains. Favorable crop reports did not prevent some realizing in the Gransers, though advances were general. Northwest being the strong feature with a net gain of a point.

The Coalers were the weak section of gesterday's market. Reports in circulation as to the trade conditions were bad, and, what is more, true. These reports of themselves, in view of the fact that the Coalers are high enough—the dividend payers being referred to—even for a normal coal situation, should cause a sharp decline in Lackawanna, Delaware and Hidson and Jersey, and would but for the firm and apparently reasonable belief that some way will be found, and at a timely moment announced to adjust all these troubles and put the trade on a better basis. In brief, the situation presents these possibilities. On the one hand, unless a scittement is reached, collapse in the-coal shares and a resultant ble disaster as a collapse in the Coal stocks would be.

It may be that the outcome of Susquehannah's affairs is the forerunner of set, tlement in other Anthracite directions, That company was supposed to go into receivers' hands, but found deliverers instead, and these have something at stake in conserving the Coal interests generally. Again, there is the absorption of Reading in this market. It is not likely that the people who are buying it buy because it is so generally feared, and believed, that the cutire Anthracite structure is about to collainse as the trade and prices have done so noisily.

Closed steady; sales 75,800 bales. Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, June 19.—Summary Hubbard Bros. & Co's. cotton letter: The action of our market during the forenoon has been at variance with the anticipations caused by the early decline in Liverpool. There the market opened at 3 points decline, with an easy tone in spots, but the close, after some fluctuation, was firm at practically last night's prices. Here the opening was decidedly easy, August selling at 6.97, but as the call progressed prices regained their tone. A lack of sellers was apparent, and, fostered by the reports of bad weather in Texas, the market changed from a weak to a firm one before the call was completed. With an occasional lapse the drift during the forenoon has been toward a higher range of values. It is felt that the decline has gone nearly far enough and that present prices are fairly safe. This feeling has been strengthened both by direct reports from Texas as to the heavy rains there and continued bullish telegrams from New Orleans. The advance to 1 o'clock has covered 16 points with the market still very steady. After advancing to 6.97 for August the market wavered and gave symptoms of too rapid improvement. A decline of 7 points followed, but without much pressure to sell. It was reported that some prominent southern operators, who hitherto have been bearish, bought largely today on the unfavorable weather in Texas. This weather factor is an important one, and its bearing upon prices cannot be overestimated. The close was steady with a good undertone at from 6 to 8 points above the close of yesterday.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, June 13.—Cotton fell 5 to 6 points on July and August, but rallided later and the whole list rose lo to 13 points, after which it reached and closed steady at a net advance of 8 to 9 points, with sales of 201,500 bales. Liverpool sold 19,000 bales on the spot at a decline of 1-16d; futures declined 3 to 3½ points but became stronger and closed firm with the loss in most cases recovered. Manchester was quiet. New Orleans advanced 12 to 14 points. Port receipts, 2,856, against 1,175 last year. Spot cotton was officially reported quiet and steady; 263 bales wite sold for spinning. Southern markets were generally quiet and unchanged. Mobile declined 1-16e and Norfolk was weak. The signal service predicted fair weather for South Carolina, North Carolina and Texas with showers elsewhere.

Teday's Features.—At the start prices weakened a little, owing to a decline in Liverbool and the generally favorable character of the government weekly report, but later on the tone became stronger under the stimulus of heavy rains in Texas and a demand to cover shorts, while at the same time the market was also strengthened by the fact that there was less pressure to sell. Longview, Tex., reported a rainfall of 2.70 inches; Seguin 4 inches; Paris 2.67; Weatherford 2.42; Waco 2.35 and at other points in Texas and also in Arkansas, Louislana and Mississippi he precipitation was heavy, while the signal service predicted further showers during the next twenty-four hours with northerly winds in Tennessee and Arkansas. In many localities of the south the tennerature of late has been low. The good effect of the recent liquidation is the climination of much of the weak long interest and concentration of cotton in tostronger hands—hands likely to hold it for much higher prices. Cotton in New York is hedged again for future delivery, and the cotton in New Orleans also bought heavily. There was quite a little new buying also, owing to the heavy rains at the south. Moreover Liverpool beam estronger toward th The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, June 19.—(Special.)—The cotto tarket was particularly lively today. Liverpool sent us a fresh decline which, takin market wis particularly fled to the period sent us a frish decline which, taking anto consideration the several successive declines which we have lately had, seemed a staggering blow. August opened at 6.7% but it at once became apparent that the weak longs had been shaken out yesterday and that while everybody wanted to buy there was nobody that cared to sell. In a very few minutes August had shot upward half a dozen points. After a brief hil the advance was resumed and was not checked until August had sold at 6.97. Then there were heavy realizing sales, under which August receded to 6.89, only to rally in the final trading to 6.91. The close was steady with 6.91 bid for August. After the close the feeling improved and bidders were offering 6.93 for August. Heavy rains in the southwest, which are thought to have been damaging, carage to the rescue of the bulls to ay. We ithink the improvement will be 10 for Goods.

The Manchester Market.

Manchester. June 9.—The Guardian, in its commercial article, says:

"The tendency of the market during the week has been in favor of buyers, and some business has been done at figures previously declined. Producers are apparently disheartened over the continued weakness of cotton and the poor character of the demand for India and elsewhere. The orders in many departments are running out more rapidly than they can be replenished. A greater disposition is shown to press sales, despite the poor markin available. There was a spurt in the buying for China last week, but it has, to a great extent, subsided. Yarns are weaker and buyers are watching the market closely before operating.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Closed 2 3-4c Lower Yesterday, the Other Cereals Following. Chicago, June 19.—The wheat market wound up in a state of commatose today, that culminated almost at the stroke of the bell marking the close, and was hardly expected by the most radical bears. It is true the market was not particularly strong at any time during the session, but the presence of nothing but a scalping business did not presage very wide fluctuations. Up till noon there had been eas.ness and firmness alternately, but after that hour weakness set in and fructions were gradually dropped from values until nearing the close, when a quick break took place. July wheat opened from 74% to 74c, sold between 74% and 71%c, closing at 71%c, 2%c under yesterday. Cash wheat was 11/20 2c lower.

Corn-Not until late in the session was there much weakness felt in corn. The light receipts-only $1 cars arriving today-gave shorts some uneasiness. The covering purchases supported prices early, but the intense weakness of wheat later overcame all other influences, a decline taking place. July corn opened at 50%c, sold between 50%c and 49%c019%c, closing at 49%c. le under yesterday. Cash corn was ½c per bushel lower.

By private wire to J. C. Knox, manager, Chicago, June 19.—The firmness in wheat yesterday at the close entirely disappeared over might, and the market closed today very much depressed. Cables and not come in as strong as expected. Liverpool was about 12d, higher, but immediately became weak, closing 4d, lower. Continental markets were some better, but not enough to attract attention. Clearances were less than 100,000 bushels. The cash business here was practically at a standstill. The northwest was very aggressive, sending bearish reports regarding the favorable prospects for the spring wheat crop, and on this news the market became heavy with local professionals the principal seilers. For a time trading was very light and the decline slow, but each fractional decline brought prices nearer stop-loss limits, which, when reached, fed the market liberally with liquidated contracts and resulted in a net decline of nearly 3c, per bushel from the high point. Scattering bad reports continue to arrive from states east of the Mississippi river, but just now the trade requires something more stimulating to advance—to even sustain prices. Interior millers are buying Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. from states east of the Mississippi river. but just now the trade requires something more stimulating to advance—to even sustain prices. Interior millers are buying only from a hand-to-mouth character, waiting until thrashing becomes general, when they expect to buy all they will require at much lower prices. Although New York has been sending advices of export takings during the past two or three days, those reports fail to be confirmed. On the whole, the immediate outlook is not favorable to holders, although reactions are in order.

The early feature in corn was the light receipts. Shorts did some covering on the theory that the bulk of the surplus is held in Illinois, and that holders of cash, therefore, have it in their power to make deliveries very light and cause considerable uneasiness among shorts. This soon lost its effect, however, in the face of favorable crop prospects, and prices became weak under heavy selling by houses with western connections.

Crop Notes.

Nebraska's crop conditions are improving daily. Much corn planted this week has sprouted. Corn crop 80 per cent acreage. Small grain indications most flattering. All talk of the great quantity of rain falling in Nebraska producing rust in wheat fields is unfounded.

Director J. H. Harding, of the Northern Pacific, who was one of the Minnesota Iron-Great Northern party, is home. He says the wheat crop is Minnesota and the Dakotas never looked better, and 150,000,000 bushels will be harvested. On the trip he met many railroad men, and they said the cern crop in Kansas, the oat crop in Iowa were all that could be desired.

Prime says: "Hot, dry weather again in the central belt. Spring wheat reports on the line of Northern Pacific and from the Red River valley are encouraging. They give promise of a full crop of wheat, oats and Barley. Corn is doing remarkably well in Nebraska. Late wheat harvesting will begin this week but bugs, drouth and hot winds continue to lower the average of the wheat crop in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and and Barley. Corn is doing remarkably well in Nebraska. Late wheat harvesting will begin this week but bugs, drouth and hot winds continue to lower the average of the wheat crop in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Illinois. It looks like barely half a crop of oats in those states."

The teams change around again today and will line up this way:

Atlanta at Chattanooga

Montgomery at New Orleans. Little Rock at Memphis. Evansville and Nashville have a Sunday same and will not work this afternoon. Norton, Atlanta's new pitcher, let the Chattanoogas down with two hits yester-But for an error, and an ugly one, too made by Smith in the ninth inning, Norton would have had a one-hit game to add to his record. With two men out in the ninth Hill drove the ball towards Smith and every one thought it was a sure ou Smith failed to handle the ball and Potts, the next man up, made a two-bagger, the second hit of the game.

It was a good crowd out when the um-pire starzed the work of the afternoon, and though the game was somewhat one-sided, there were many out who enjoyed it very Norton was given the best support by the team and every man worked right along hard for the game. He manifested a thorough and complete control of the ball nearly all the time and was able to put it right where he wanted to place it nearly every time. In addition to being able to hold the Chattanoogas down to two hits, Norton did a little hitting himself. Out of four times at the bat he got three hits, and one of them was a double. Two of the hits figured in the run-getting, while the other one, his double, gave him second whence he scored on a single the base he showed life, snap and ginger and convinced all that he was quite a sprinter. The only objection to Norton so far, and that cannot be called an ob-jection if it helps him win ball, and he jection if it helps him win ball, and he says it does, is his slow movement about and in the box. He certainly doesn't try to show any life around the box and his motions there are in sad contrast with his work while moving around the bases. So far Norton's work has been of the highest order and if he continues as he has begun he will prove one of the stars of the association. The team takes kindly the him and every member is giving him.

christ, who pitched for Manager Whistler, was tapped up quite lively at times. Every member of the team except Friel found him for what was wanted and Friel uched a good sacrifice which figured in e run-getting.

The Atlantas scored first in the second inning and the run was made by Hornung.
With one man out Hornung found the ball for a tripple. McDade went out and then Burns's error on Smith's drive sent Hornung across the plate.
With Delehanty out in the third Knowles singled and came home on Armstrong's tripple. Friel waited well and then stole second and both scored on Goodenough's two-bagger.

on's two-bagger, Delehanty's fly out and Whistler's error in handling Knowles's drive sent Norton home.

The fifth brought Friel a hard thump echrist and as he rubbed himself left fielder went on down to first. Then, without any trouble, he stole second and then third and came home on Goodenough's single. Goodenough stole second and when Hornung sent a long high one into de center field Goodenough came home after the ball had been taken in. McDade flew out and Smith got his first on Burns's error and went to third on an error by Fischer. Norton made his second hit of the game and Smith came in.

A combination of errors by the Chattanooga infield, stolen bases by Knowles, Armstrong and Friel and another thump in the side for Friel, aided by Goodenough's two-bagger, gave Atlanta two more in the sixth.

Knowles got a three-bagger to open the eighth and came home on Armstrong's fly out to Whistler.

A double by McDade, a tripple by Smith, single by Norton and another one like by Delehanty added two more runs to Atlanta in the ninth. The score was:

The Atlantas and the Chattanoogas both left the city yesterday afternoon after the game for Chattanooga, where they will play, this afternoon.

After three days in Chattanooga the Atlantas will come home and play New Orleans, Montgomery, Memphis and Little Rock in the order named.

Horner will join the team in Chattanooga tonight.

Little Rock Made It Six Straights. Little Rock, Ark., June 19.—The home team won its sixth straight game today. The Little Rocks batted like flends and had the visitors at their mercy from the start. The feature of the game was the batting of Knoll, he being credited with three home runs.

Mobile, Ala., June 19.—(Special.)—Mobile has been asked to take the place of Memphis in the Southern Association and from the way the new was received here today this city will undoubtedly accept. The electric road managers are agreeable and a good bonus can be raised on the outside. There will be a meeting of the league tomorrow at which Henry Powers, of New Orleans, will ask that Mobile be given the Memphis franchise. Charles Frank, the present Memphis manager, is a Mobilian, and is popular in this city. It is understood if any more breaks occur in the league the Southern will be disbanded and a gulf league organized composed of New Or-leans, Mobile, Pensacola, Montgomery, Sel-ma and Birmingham, or Columbus, Ga. Lady Somerset, in the course of her address, paid a high tribute to the women of America, who she said were the pioneers in taking up the work of organization around the world.

After the singing of a hymn Mrs, Sterling made a speech in which she denounced the infamy of there being any legal age of consent when man could disgrace woman. The union she declared out hit to man. The union, she declared, ought to make an attack upon all religions and all governments that are willing to make degovernments that are willing to make de-fenseless girls the prey of lecherous men

Miss Willard's address was received with prolonged cheers, waving of handkerchiefs, the audience finally gave vent to their enthusiasm in song, the English por tion of the gathering rising to their feet and singing part of "God Save the Queen."

The convention, at the afternoon session, eccived and disposed of the department reports on the question of suppressing the use of oplum, international arbitration of dis-putes, and the reading of the Bible and secular newspapers. Lady Henry Somerset read a petition signed by Miss Willard on behalf of the convention, which it is intend further the prevention of inebriety. Mr. Walter S. B. McLaren M. P. delivered an address urging the convention to place the question of female suffrage at the head and front of their programme. Miss Willard moved that the convention record the opposition of the union to all forms of lawless punishment, and especially forturing and lynching, pledging its utmost efforts to cause such barbarous acts to cease everywhere.

The convention then welcomed the fraternal delegates, most of whom were residents

NO QUORUM PRESENT.

Southern Railroad Men Adjourn To Meet in Asheville Next Month.

THERE IS OPPOSITION TO ARBITRATORS

Some Members Want To Abolish the Board and Have Appeals to the Association To Settle.

New York, June 19 .- (Special.)-The twenty-first annual convention of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association has adjourned to meet at the Battery Park hotel, Asheville, N. C., on July 16th. When the convention was called to order at the Hotel Waldorf at 10 o'clock this morning, only a bare majority of the members put in an appearance. A number of members had been in New York since June 12th waiting to vote on the new agreement, and it is supposed that some of them became tired and returned to their respective homes.

Asheville has been fixed as the next place of meeting, because it is supposed to have fewer attractions or rather fewer irresistible attractions, to the average southern railroad official than New York city. It is expected that the meeting of July 16th will be one of hard work.

Nothing is given out officially in regard to the new agreement although it is stated on good authority that it changes the name of the association to the Southern States Freight Association, and is perpetual instead of expiring by limitation within a year. It is also reported that the committee, in recommending changes, could not agree upon a system of arbitration for the new association, and that the full convention will have to settle the matter. Here tofore the association has had a board of arbitration, composed of three rallroad men of high ability and irreproachable character.

The present board is composed of Colonel Thomas H. Carter, of Virginia; Colonel John Screven, of Savannah, and Major Joh W. Green, of Augusta. Colonel Carter was formerly state railroad commissioner of Virginia, and was also commissioner of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association for a number of years, being succeeded by Mr. Stahlman, the present commis-sioner, in 1892. Colonel John Screven is a prominent planter of Savannah, and was the leading spirit in building , and was for a number of years the receiver of the Atlantic and Gulf railroad, now the Savannoh, Florida and Western railway. He is also president of the Georgia Historical Soclety, and a trustee of the State university at Athens. Major John W. Green is well known in Georgia as the manager of the Georgia railroad for a number of years. While no objection is made to the present board, a change is suggested that would do away with it. The change is agreeable to a number of members, but is objectionable to a majority. The importance of the matter may be seen from the mere state ment of the fact that this board of arbi tration is the highest tribunal in the asso-ciation, virtually being a supreme court from whose decision there is no appeal, and settles all differences arising between he southern transportation lines.

The various railroad officials in attentance upon the meeting left for their re spective homes this aftern The Atlanta contingent will reach home to morrow afternoon.

THE GEORGIA SOUTHERN. Spencer Makes Some Suggestions in Regard to the New Directory. New York. June 19.-President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern Rallway Company, was seen on his return from Norfolk and Baltimore this afternoon. His proposition to the city council of Norfolk has not yet been forwarded as he is awaiting additional information, which probably cannot be obtained until Thursday As regards the proposed meeting of the board of directors of the Georgia Southern and Florida railway in Baltimore yester-day, he said that it failed for want of a quorum, but that he had an informal talk with the members of the board who were present, and made suggestions as to some representation upon the board of the large nterest in the securities represented by him, which were fully concurred in by all present. These suggestions were that Ma-con be given three additional members on the board, the three present members to continue and three prominent, established business men of Atlanta be placed in the directory, and that he and Colonel Andrews be chosen to represent the Southern railway's interests. The southern railway thus suggests six changes in a board of fifteen members, four of whom shall be prominent business men of Georgia and two

Mr. and Mrs. Hicken, Who Were Jailed So Long in Atlanta-They Gave Their Names as Hickman.

After five weeks of continued peace and quietude Mrs. M. E. Hicken came before the public again yesterday, and the day was a succession of interesting events with

Her trouble began at about 9 o'clock in the morning, when she got into a fight at a Courtland avenue boarding house, and continued until 6 o'clock last night, when she and her husband were driven from an other boarding house on the same street. Mrs. Hicken's career in Atlanta has been an eventful one. Two or three months ago she and a man claiming to be her husband came here from Florida, and both were shortly afterwards arrested and lodged in jail, charged with forgery, where they remained for several weeks. The two were released about five weeks ago and since that time they have lived in semiobscurity until unearthed at a boarding house run by Mrs. Buchanan at No. 50 Courtland avenue last Saturday afternoon About five weeks ago a man and woman claiming to be Mr. and Mrs. Hickman applied to Mrs. Buchanan for board, the man claiming to be a mechanic in the employ of one of the railroads. They appeared to

of one of the railroads. They appeared to be what they claimed to be, in the eyes of the boarding housekeeper, and were given accommodations. Everything went along smoothly for a month. Not the slightest suspicion as to the identity of the couple was suggested, they acting the part of Mr. and Mrs. Hickman to perfection.

Last week one of the boarders became suspicions of the pair, he having seen them, as he thought, in the courts, and an investigation was started, the result being that on Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Hickman were charged with being Mr. and Mrs. Hicken by the landlady, and not being able to prove the contrary. Mrs. Buchanan ordered them from her house in short order, she indignantly claiming that chanan ordered them from her house in short order, she indignantly claiming that she had been imposed upon by the couple by their misrepresentations.

The couple left the boarding house owing a board bill of $10, leaving as security for the amount a trunk with various contents, the property of the woman, among which were some bottles of medicine.

The man and woman wont from $6 Court

The man and woman went from 50 Court-land avenue to 81 Courtland avenue, and at the latter place obtained accommodations under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Hickman, the man claiming to be a mechanic, as at the former place.

Yesterday morning the woman went back to Mrs Buchanan's house and asked for her medicine, which Mrs. Buchanan declined to give her, unless the $10 board bill was paid. Some words massed between the was paid. Some words passed between th two women and Mrs. Hicken was ordered out of the house by Mrs. Buchanan. Mrs. nicken declined to leave the house and she incken declined to leave the house and she was forcibly ejected by Mrs. Buchanan, her daughter and Mrs. Palmer, a boarder, but not without a struggle. The difficulty occurred in the parlor, Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. Palmer claiming that Mrs. Hicken made threats that she would shoot them if they attempted to put her out, at the same time feeling in her dress as if to get a pistol. This greatly angered Mrs. Palmer who, up to that time, had not interfered in the quarrel, and she sprang upon Mrs. Hicken and shoved her into the hall and out of the front door. Mrs. Hicken made a strong resistance, and succeeded in and out of the front door. Mrs. Hicken made a strong resistance, and succeeded in tearing one of the sleeves of Mrs. Palmer's dress completely off, and scratching the arm of Mrs. Buchanan. When she had been ejected and the door closed in her face, Mrs. Hicken calmly took a seat on the front steps, and raising her unbrella, seemed to be written from ront steps, and raising her uptorein, seemed to be waiting for further developments, which came shortly, as Mrs. Buchanan at once dispatched a servant for a policeman. Officers Hamilton and Jolly arrived on the scene in a short time and arrested Mrs. Hicken, carrying her to the stationhouse, where she was detained until tried in the police court an hour later for disorderly police court an hour later for disorderly conduct. Acting Recorder Hirsch fined her

During the day Mrs. Smith, who runs a boarding house where the man and woman claiming to be Mr. and Mrs. Hickman had obtained accommodations, was informed of the occurrence at Mrs. Buchanan's, and it was not until then that she knew that the couple in her house were Mr. and Mrs. Hicken and not Hickman. She ordered the couple out of her house and they left shortly after 6_0'clock last night, the woman leaning on the man's arm, claiming to be

Mrs. Buchanan was seen after the oc currence and said that she had only recent-ly come to Atlanta from Asheville and did not know Mrs. Hicken's record until informed of it by one of her boarders last week. When she learned that Mrs. Hicken was in her house under an assumed name she says she ordered her out at once, retaining her trunk as security for an unpaid board bill.

The affair created quite a commotion on Courtland avenue, near Decatur, and a large crowd was present at the trial in friends, spent the day woods at Maddox park, on the Atlanta and Florida road.

It is not known where the pair went last night after being run away from their last boarding house. They left a valise at Mrs. Smith's as security for an unpaid board bill there, and when last seen had no effects except their wearing apparel.

It was the occasion of their annual outing, and a most pleasant trip it was. This is the twenty-second picule that has been held since the organization of the club, and all are unanimous in saying that it was one of the most enjoyable occasions that has ever been had. It was a red letter day, and the entire crowd was well pleased with the trip.

About five hundred went down on the special that left yesterday morning over the Atlanta and Florida road. The train left the city at $39 o'clock and consisted of seven conches and a baggage car, Basket dinners were carried, and under the spreading oaks the dinner was served.

The train returned to the city at 7 o'clock last night.

THE DISCOUNT DISCONTINUED.

City Tax Payers Will Now Have To Pay Their Taxes in Full. Several days ago the city council decided to give a discount of 1½ per cent on all city taxes paid until the amount of $100,000 city taxes paid until the amount of $100,000 was received.

Many took advantage of the discount and the cierks in the city tax receiver's office were busy during the days that followed. Yesterday the $100,000 was reached and the discount declared off.

The limit was reached at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, and from that hour no one was allowed any rebate on the money that came in on this account. Towards the last there was a rush at the paying window, but all were disappointed who came in late.
